

STATE WPA SHAKEN BY THREATENED STRIKE; OFFICIAL IS CITED FOR CONTEMPT BY COURT

FULTON TEACHERS GUARANTEED ONLY 8 MONTHS' TERM

Contracts for 1939-40
School Year Cut Because of State's 'Uncertain' Financial Condition.

Because of what it termed the "uncertain" condition of state finances, the Fulton county board of education yesterday voted to guarantee its teachers only eight months' employment during the 1939-40 school year, instead of 10 months as heretofore.

The board explained that unless it receives money from the state government it will have an eight-month term instead of a nine-month term and that teachers will be paid for the eight months instead of 10 months as formerly.

Opposed to Move.
"Every member of the board is opposed to the eight-month term," said Superintendent Wells, "the board announced. 'We hope later to be able to extend the contracts.'"

Superintendent Wells said that 675 teachers who instruct the county's 25,000 elementary and high school pupils were affected by the board's action.

"The board can now see only funds to pay the teachers eight months and does not feel like entering into contracts which it is not certain can be carried out," Superintendent Wells said. "There will be no reductions in teachers' salaries and while we cannot hope to cover nine months of school work in eight months, we are prepared to go as far as possible in doing so."

Precautionary Measure.
The superintendent added that all the board members felt the state's financial situation would be worked out in time to have a full nine-month term, but that yesterday's action in limiting the teachers' contracts was taken merely as a precautionary measure.

Fulton county teachers' salaries aggregate about $100,000 monthly.

How New $1,500,000 Hotel Here Would Look

This is an architect's drawing of the proposed new hotel for the downtown section which is to be erected at a cost of more than $1,500,000, contingent on the approval of an RFC loan of $1,000,000. The location is at Carnegie way and Fairlie street.

DOWNTOWN HOTEL PLANNED; TO COST OVER $1,500,000

Million in RFC Cash Is Sought for 17-Story Structure at Fairlie and Carnegie Way Corner.

A 17-story hotel representing a total investment of more than $1,500,000 is to be erected at the southwest corner of Carnegie way and Fairlie streets provided approval is obtained for a loan of $1,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, it was announced here yesterday.

Contingent on the loan approval, a 99-year lease for the site has been negotiated with the Volunteer Life Insurance Company; a contract for the construction of the building has been awarded to the Cummins Construction Company, of Baltimore, and a 10-year contract for the operation of the plant has been signed with the National Hotel Company, of Galveston, Texas.

Application Filed.
Application for the loan has been filed by Roosevelt, Inc., a Georgia corporation, both here and in Washington. The RFC State Advisory Board will take it under consideration at a meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon and if favorably acted on it will be forwarded to the Washington headquarters office.

Designed by Holabird & Bird, Chicago architects, the building would be the most modern of its type in the south, incorporating every known improvement in hotel construction for the past 15 years.

Among its outstanding features would be complete air-conditioning equipment for nearly 300 rooms, which will allow individual temperature control at any time of the year, and a convention hall to accommodate 1,000 persons.

Total Cost Estimates.
Estimates on the total cost of the project are: Leasehold estate, $175,000; building construction, $1,010,000; furniture and equipment, $165,000; kitchen equipment, $18,550; architects' and engineers' fees, $70,000; carrying charges to completion of the building, $50,000; working capital, $25,000; total valuation, $1,513,550.

Edgar Watkins Sr., who, with Allan Watkins, represents the Roosevelt Corporation, pointed out yesterday that the loan application was filed after six months of exhaustive research here by nationally known authorities, all of whom have approved the proposal.

In the explanatory letter accompanying the application it was stated that no new hotels have been built here since 1925 and that the population of the city has increased an estimated 130,000 during that time.

20 Salvagers Saved as Sub Sinks Again

Squalus Shoots Upward Like
Geyser, Then Plummets
Again.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 13. (P)—Pure luck and skillful handling of their craft saved 20 navy men from being thrown into the sea late today as the partially flooded submarine Squalus broke away from a salvage crew and plummeted back to the ocean bottom through a tangled net of lifting equipment.

The men were in two of the salvage vessel Falcon's whaleboats—ten to a boat—close to the larger craft's side, when pontoons, air hose, buoys and the Squalus' bow shot skyward like a geyser without warning.

"Go back," men shouted from the Falcon's deck, and the crews of whaleboats, who had been waiting to close the bow pontoons' valves when they broke the ocean surface, maneuvered their craft out of the surge of water.

The Squalus had reared suddenly from the ocean depths like a giant fish seeking freedom from an angler's hook.

Thus, in one minute, seven arduous and dangerous weeks of salvage preparation were all but nullified. Hardly had the Squalus reared, however, when the navy actually began the lifting attempt anew. Preparations were made to work through the night.

Associated Press observers at the scene reported the wild flurry that threw the submarine out of control happened with all the violence of an explosion.

SECURITY CHANGES VOTED BY SENATE; TAX RATE FROZEN

Increased Payments and $10 State Contributions for Pensions Are Included in Amendments.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(P)—The senate adopted amendments to the social security law today designed to make it more attractive both to businessmen and to its beneficiaries.

It registered its approval by a roll call vote of 57 to 8 and sent the measure back to the house for action on changes made in the amendments by the senate.

The amendments contained a provision freezing old-age insurance taxes for three years at 1 per cent for the employer and 1 per cent for the employee. Otherwise, the rate would have advanced to 1 and one-half per cent.

For social security beneficiaries, the amendments provided: Additional payments to widows. That old-age insurance payments, under the contributory system, shall start in 1940 instead of 1942.

Increased payments to workers who retire during the early years of the system.

A $25. per month pension for the needy aged. (This is distinct from the old-age insurance system under which workers on retirement receive a pension for which their wages have been taxed.)

The bill contained a provision, adopted by the senate at the last session, that the federal government shall start in 1940 instead of 1942.

AFL CHIEF MEETS WITH ROOSEVELT

Harrington Expects Howl
Over Readjustment of the Wage Differentials.

By The Associated Press.
The federal government dismissed additional thousands of striking relief workers yesterday and undertook an investigation of reports that threats and intimidation had been used to keep nonstrikers from their jobs in East St. Louis, Ill.

By nightfall, more than 16,000 WPA employees had been dismissed for remaining away from work five consecutive days. Colonel F. C. Harrington, the work relief commissioner, served notice at a conference of state WPA directors in Chicago that such discharges would continue.

AFL Chief, F. D. R. Confer.
In Washington, the American Federation of Labor placed before President Roosevelt its request for restoration of the old WPA rule that workers receive the prevailing local wage for their type of work.

Mr. Roosevelt had said previously at a press conference that he thought the administration would stick with the new relief act's requirement that WPA employees work 130 hours for a monthly "security wage."

Only a short time after Tracy's visit to the White House, Colonel Harrington declared at a press conference in Chicago that he had no intention of asking congress "for legislation at this time" to alter the new relief statute.

Harrington said the conference of WPA directors decided to start putting into effect immediately the law's requirement that, effective September 1, employees who have been on the rolls 18 months or more be laid off for 30 days. If the furloughs were delayed to September 1, he said, projects to Their Posts Today.

U. S. INVESTIGATORS WILL GO TO BARTOW

Director, Under Technical
Arrest for Refusing List, Gets Habeas Corpus.

Below-the-surface discontent with the Work Projects Administration boiled over yesterday in two widely separated cities—Cartersville and Milledgeville. There were these developments:

(1) In Cartersville, W. J. Greene, WPA director for the Marietta area, was cited for contempt of court and put under technical arrest when he declined, upon instructions from his superiors, to turn over to a Bartow county grand jury a list of persons employed on WPA projects there. His action will be reviewed here at 10 o'clock this morning by Federal Judge Underwood, who late yesterday granted a writ of habeas corpus, taking precedence over the Bartow court.

Strike Threatened.
(2) Milledgeville reported a threatened strike of skilled workers on a WPA repair project at the state hospital in protest against the lengthened work hours required by the new "security wage" schedule recently enacted by congress.

(3) It was revealed definitely by Representative Malcolm C. Tarver that congressional investigators will go to Bartow county to probe charges by Colonel Monroe Neel, made two weeks ago, of "glaring instances" which, he asserted, make the WPA "a public scandal" in Bartow county.

Farmers have been unable to obtain sufficient labor within the last few weeks, witnesses said, although "several hundred" persons are reported on county relief rolls.

Colonel Neel's attack was made to Senators Russell and George and Representative Tarver. Judge Tarver asked for immediate investigation by Colonel F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, and Representative Woodrum, chairman of the house deficiency subcommittee.

Judge Tarver was advised by Woodrum that investigators would be sent to Bartow county by the Congressional Investigating Committee, Writing to Fred R. Rauch, assistant commissioner of the Work Projects Administration, Tarver

12,000 Reserves Ordered To British Fleet in August

London Determined To Be Prepared for Any Eventuality
During Danger Period; France On Alert for Spies at Military Show Today.

By The Associated Press.
Great Britain called 12,000 reservists to the colors yesterday to join the fleet for its August and September maneuvers in what was heralded as another show of power for Germany's benefit.

Authorities considered it significant that the British navy would be thus strengthened at the time of the Nazi party congress in the fall—which many have picked as a danger period.

In another preparedness move the government asked parliament to provide an additional 40,000,000 pounds (about $187,200,000) for the expanding air force, whose planes were assigned a prominent part in France's celebration of Bastille Day today.

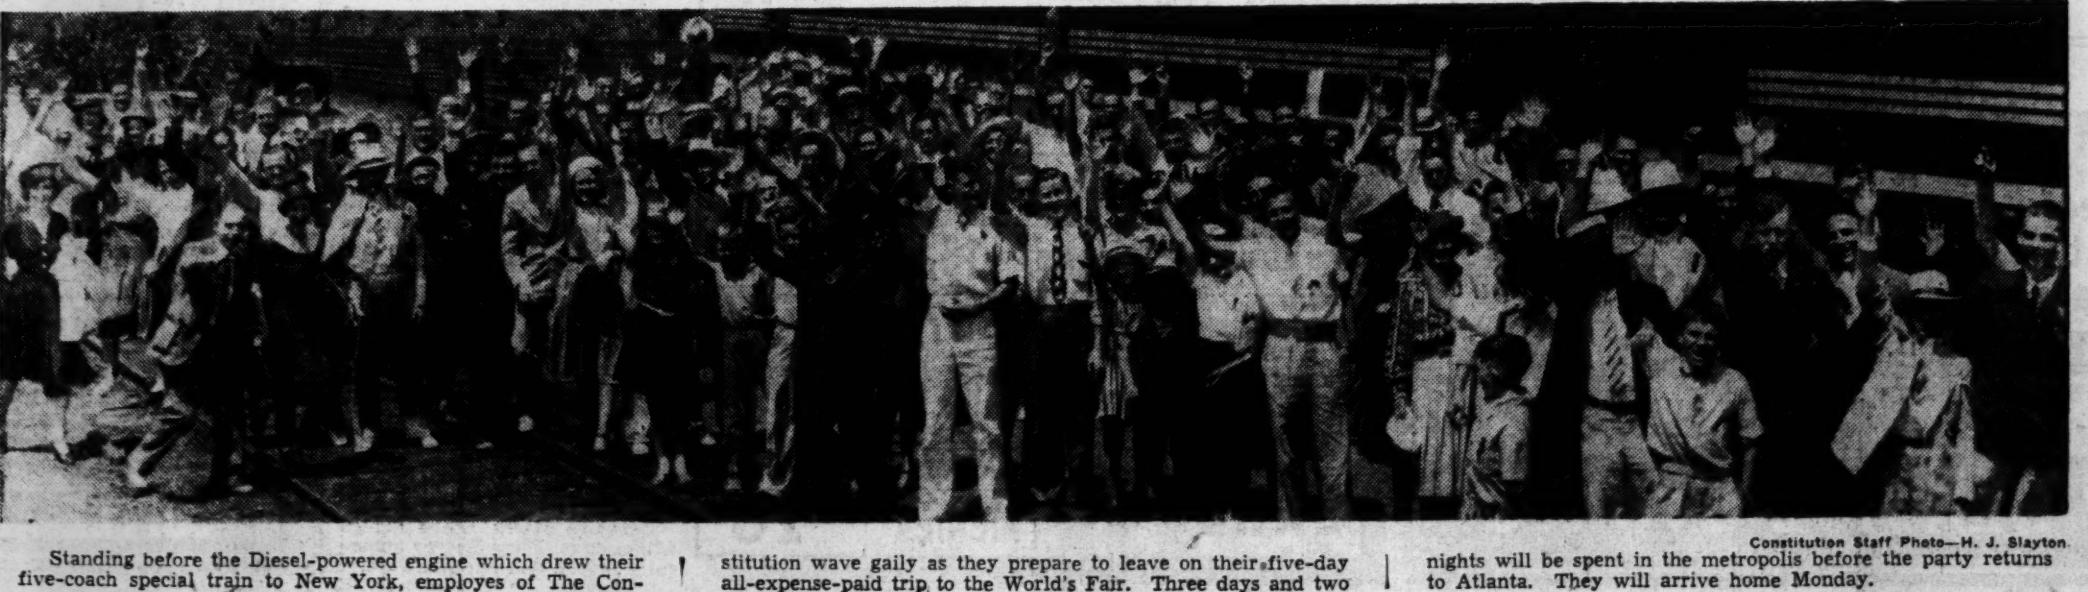

British troops, too, will step along the Champs Elysees with the French, and British officials will be in the reviewing stand. In the minds of many observers this friendly gesture was another demonstration of British-French unity designed chiefly for Nazi eyes.

In Paris last night, the Union Jack of England was displayed as widely as the French tricolor, in response to a special appeal by the Paris municipal council, and

Hot Fruit Muffins Are Real Treat When Served With Cold Meal

Here's a Recipe Using Apricots That Adds Zest to Lunches; a Few Other Interesting Things to Cook This Summer Listed.

ROBERT & COMPANY FAVORED FOR WORK

Sanitary Committee Will Recommend Awarding of Crematory Contract.

Robert & Company, Atlanta engineering firm, yesterday was favored as engineers on the proposed new $538,000 city crematory to replace the present 27-year-old plant on Hulsey street.

Members of the sanitary committee will file the recommendation with city council Monday, asking that the contract be awarded. It provides a five per cent fee including preparation of plans and supervision of the structure during erection.

H. J. Cates, superintendent of the sanitary department, said that in the $538,000 figure is contemplated the purchase of a new site in the vicinity of the present plant. Funds for the improvement will be derived from sales of steam from the plant amounting to about $30,000 a year. A state constitutional amendment approved last June enables the city to issue revenue certificates to be retired in this manner.

Okra Pilau

(An old Charleston, S. C., recipe)
Submitted by Miss Julia R. Beckman,
672 Glen Irish Drive, N. E.,
Atlanta.

Ingredients—Six slices breakfast bacon, 1 pound fresh okra, 1 cup whole rice, 1 cup boiling water, 1 small onion, 1 teaspoon salt (more if necessary).

Method—Thinly slice the okra and onion. Fry bacon until crisp and put aside to garnish pilau. Fry onion in bacon fat until tender, but not brown.

Add okra, stir and cover until tender, but not mushy.

Wash the rice in hot water, twice. Drain. Into a double boiler put rice; add exactly one cup of boiling water and the salt. Stir once ONLY, and cook over boiling water until rice is flaky (about 30 to 45 minutes).

Remove from boiler into a large mixing bowl; stir with fork the rice and okra mixture. Return to double boiler and steam until it is hot. Garnish with the crisp bacon.

(If procedure is followed accurately the result will be a perfect pilau which, ordinarily, is considered difficult to make.)

EDITOR'S NOTE—A pilau (pronounced ploo, short i, long o) is an Oriental dish, of Turkish origin to be exact. In early days of the American colonies rice was extensively cultivated in South Carolina. Thus it is famous for its rice dishes.

RIVE TO REMOVE SIGNBOARDS FROM HIGHWAYS OPENS

Fulton Planning Board
Calls Upon Commissioners to Enforce Resolution
Adopted in 1936.

Fulton County's Planning Commission yesterday moved to clear highways of unsightly signboards as a part of its beautification and safety program.

Agreeing to numerous recommendations made by the Atlanta Sign Contractors' Association, the board called upon the Fulton county commissioners to enforce a resolution adopted in 1936 prohibiting erection of signs on county-owned rights of way.

J. W. Seaton, secretary of the association, handed the resolution to Robert L. MacDougall, chairman of the planning board, a written agreement that no signs would be located or maintained as follows:

1. Upon private or public property without a lease or consent of the owner or occupant of the property.
2. On the inside of curves or in the vicinity of a railway crossing or highway intersection in such a manner as to create an obstruction of view and constitute a traffic hazard.
3. In areas of unusual natural scenic beauty, which shall not include land used primarily for business or agricultural purposes.
4. National, state or local parks.
5. Historical shrines and other places of unusual historical significance.

Rolled Rib Roast Is Good Choice From Economic, Practical Point Buy It Large Enough So It Can Be Served Hot for Sunday Dinner and as Cold Sliced Beef Several Days Next Week.

By SALLY SAVER

To you, it's just filling the grocery basket with items which you have selected for pantry shelf or Sunday dinner. To the wholesale grocer and market-man, it is influencing the law of "supply and demand."

Now I know you haven't time to be bothered with the law of supply and demand and I wouldn't trouble you with it, but for the important fact that this law, which wasn't made by legislatures and isn't written down in the law books at all, has a tremendous bearing on your food budget. And when anything has much of a bearing on the food budget that is important! Sometimes this law operates to make things available at unusually low prices, and sometimes it gets all out of whack and it works the other way around. One of the strangest things about all this is that you may be going blithely on your way just buying "that you want to buy, and contributing in a big way, without knowing it, to getting this "law" out of whack.

Well, here's what it's all about today: In the summer you want to spend as few hours in the kitchen as you can, so you buy meats that are quickly cooked. These meats are not necessarily better, or cheaper, or more nutritious than are other cuts of meat—the only advantage is they cook quickly. These quick-cooking meats are all from one small area of the beef, because it is beef we're talking about, since practically no other meat, except cured meats, can be eaten with very short cooking.

There are other parts of this same beef, equally good, equally nutritious, but because they must be cooked for a longer period they are not bought in summer and they hang in refrigerated storerooms, unwanted. That's the picture. Now let's see what happens. The unchosen parts of a very good beef keep collecting, and economists would say the SUPPLY is greater than the DEMAND. This over-supply then becomes cheap in price simply because there is plenty of it.

On the other hand, the supply of quick-cooking cuts is soon taken by DEMAND and these become higher and higher in price because it is bad economics to waste, or let lie unused, the other parts of the animal killed for food. Right now there is an oversupply of excellent meat from the beef forequarter which is the source of many fine cuts (rib roasts, chuck roasts, rolled roasts, etc.) quite in demand at other seasons. These cuts are cheap, while the hindquarter cuts (sirloin, porterhouse, T-bone and club) are going higher and higher. Local packers say there could be a shortage of many fine cuts which would send the prices still higher. Steaks are the principal cuts which come from the hindquarter. Wouldn't it be good business to buy a roast from the forequarter this week and so that when you especially want a steak the price of it will not be high?

A rolled rib roast would be a good choice from an economic and practical standpoint. Buy it large enough so that it can be served hot for Sunday dinner, and several days next week you can have cold sliced beef for luncheon and supper plates, and for sandwiches.

Your butcher will prepare the rolled rib roast, which is very pretty and is no trouble to carve, since it has no bones. Season it with salt and pepper, and place it in an open roasting pan in a slow oven. Do not add water, and do not cover the roast. Just roast it, as is, slowly, allowing 28 to 30 minutes to the pound for a rare roast; 32 to 35 minutes to the pound for medium, and 37 to 40 minutes to the pound for well done. If you want gravy for the Sunday dinner roast, make it with the pan drippings.

ARMY PICKS TAMPA AS AIRCRAFT BASE

Mobile Selected as South-eastern Supply Depot in U. S. Defense Program.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(UP) Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring announced today that the southeastern air base in the army's new air defense string will be located about six miles southeast of Tampa, Fla.

The southeastern air depot, to be established under the same program, will be located about one mile southeast of Mobile, Ala., he said.

Prolonged study of the situation, he explained, pointed to the two locations as the logical choices for concentration of military aircraft activities for protection of the South Atlantic coast and Caribbean areas.

The Mobile depot, he said, is ideally situated for storage and distribution of all types of air corps material required for operations in the southeast, Puerto Rico and Panama.

The air corps expansion program also calls for new air bases in Puerto Rico, Panama, Alaska and the northeastern section of the United States.

Walter H. Rich Building To Be Erected at Young Harris for Farm Chemistry Instruction

This is the architect's drawing of the proposed Walter H. Rich Farm Vocational and Home Economics building to be erected at Young Harris College. The building is the gift of Walter H. Rich, president of Rich, Inc., and its construction is expected to be started this week. It will be used for instructing students of Young Harris in the chemistry of farming. At left, according to the plans prepared by Hentz, Adler & Shutze, Atlanta architects, will be a sewing room containing five sewing machines and cutting tables in which sewing classes for girls will be conducted. At the rear of the sewing room will be a home economics laboratory. This will be completely equipped with six kitchenettes, each furnished with a stove, sink and refrigerator. Adjacent to the home economics department will be a dining room with a seating capacity of 30, in which dinners will be served trustees on the occasion of their visit to the college. On the right side of the building will be a classroom for boys. In the rear of the classroom, plans call for a laboratory where experiments will be carried out in the chemistry of the soil and other subjects relating to chemistry in agriculture. The building will be a one-story structure with a brick exterior and an asphalt shingle roof. It is to be ready January 1.

Voelkischer Boebachter, came a blast against British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, who was accused of trying to undermine Germany with propaganda disguised as letters from an individual.

The paper referred to recent letters which Germans have been getting from London signed by Commander Stephen King-Hall and which, it said, try "in a most stupid manner to engender a de-feast feeling among the German people."

Italy expressed her displeasure over France's coding the little republic of Hatay to Turkey on June 23, objecting as one of the Allied powers which gave France a mandate over the territory. Turkey got Hatay in return for joining the British-French mutual assistance bloc.

Soda squirts in Kansas City, Mo., have a code all their own. If he shouts "21" to the cashier he means "the guy is trying to beat it without paying his check." "62" is notice to the other soda clerks that the gal who just came in is one swell looker.

Whipple Sees Sales Tax as Need To Cover State's 'Little New Deal'

Georgia's Present Income Must Be Raised Approximately $10,000,000, Cochran Legislator Tells Educators at 17th Annual Conference in Athens.

ATHENS, Ga., July 13.—(P)—Teachers from $40 to $80 a month and $1,800,000 to make up losses counties have suffered in home-stead exemptions.

The legislator estimated there were 90,000 persons in Georgia eligible for old-age pensions, and said less than half that number were receiving them. He declared it would take $4,320,000 to pay the 90,000 pensions.

The economy investigating committee's report declaring state revenue could be increased by tightening tax laws was assailed by Whipple. He termed additional revenue by such method was "purely speculative" and added "taxpayers always will find some way to dodge them."

Whipple estimated it would take $10,110,000 to pay Georgia's school lowing national regulations in refusing the relief list to the grand jury.

Officials there said such data were considered official information and could not be released without specific permission of the federal commissioner in Washington.

Greene's superiors said when asked for this information he cited the regulations covering such matters and advised his Atlanta office.

The Atlanta office also disclosed that the telegram which Strickland sent to Greene read: "Please respectfully decline to furnish information and courtously advise that the list is of an official nature and cannot be disclosed without specific approval of the federal commissioner of work projects. The request has been transmitted to the federal commissioner through our regional office."

Officials of the State Welfare Department yesterday indicated that they were planning to continue work in spite of the threatened strike.

Putnam Protest. Putnam county citizens, alarmed by WPA lay-offs over the state, yesterday showered Senators George and Russell and Representative Carl Vinson with telegrams protesting the continued "temporary shutdown" of an agricultural project in the section.

Approximately 300 workers, employed on a 14,000-acre tract used jointly by the Griffin experiment station of the University System and the land-use division of the Department of Agriculture as a proving ground, were cut off nearly two weeks ago. Assurance was given at the time that the slash in the rolls was temporary.

The project, under the direction of W. F. Leverette, is in Jones, Putnam and Jasper counties. Approximately 2,000 of the 14,000 acres are in crops.

Meanwhile WPA administrative officials checked the supply of form 403, the slip of paper that officially notifies the worker that he is temporarily off the pay roll, as 10,700 Georgia workers who had been on the rolls for 18 months or longer faced a 30-day layoff under new wage regulations.

In Quadruplicate. The form is issued in quadruplicate. The pay roll department in the state office gets the original, on white paper; the first copy, on blue paper, is kept by the area employment office; the second copy, on pink paper, goes to the State Welfare Department, while the third copy, on buff, goes to the worker.

It was explained that form 403 is mailed out as follows: 1—On the completion of a project, or when all allotted funds have been spent. 2—When the worker has completed that work to which he has been assigned and is not needed to complete the rest of the project. 3—When he has been offered a job in private industry by the state employment service, or when WPA officials discover that he has refused work in private industry. 4—When the worker's eligibility for employment is cancelled by the decision of investigators that he is no longer in need. 5—When he is inexcusably absent from the job for 15 days, or when he is absent for five days in protest against the new wage-hour regulations. 6—For disciplinary suspensions for more than two weeks or for disciplinary discharges, and for the enforced vacations, ordered yesterday by National Administrator Harrington.

When the worker's services are needed again, the office sends out another form, 402, telling him where to report, and notifying him that his name is back on the active list and pay roll.

U. S. PROBE ORDERED IN HARLAN VIOLENCE

Murphy Sends 2 G-Men to Investigate After Parley With Labor Heads.

HARLAN, Ky., July 13.—(P)—Federal investigation was ordered today in "Bloody Harlan" county's newest outbreak of coal field violence.

One miner was killed, a national guard captain seriously wounded and seven others injured in a "pitched battle" at a mine and a subsequent street shooting yesterday.

Attorney General Frank Murphy at Washington said he was sending two Department of Justice agents to Harlan immediately. Decision to send the men, he said, followed a conference with the Labor Department officials.

Lewis Asks U. S. Probe. Several hours before Murphy's announcement John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers and the CIO, in a letter to Murphy charged Governor A. B. Chandler was responsible for the fresh outbreaks and asked federal investigation.

Lewis charged the Governor was "violating his oath and prostituting the power of his state" in keeping troops here. He asserted Chandler was trying to "exact vengeance" because the CIO supported Senator Barkley instead of the Governor in last summer's senatorial primary.

Chandler Answers Lewis. The Governor, at Frankfort, in reply said the responsibility was Lewis', adding:

"Lewis has found one state where the people are not ready to be bulldozed. This is a new situation for him."

Chandler said Lewis' charge of "vengeance" was "ridiculous, absurd and absolutely untrue. Vengeance belongs to the Lord."

Attorney General Murphy said the federal agents here be arrangements had been made to fore word was received from Lewis asking federal intervention.

would collapse because of the absence of so many men at the same time.

The commissioner predicted, in response to a question, that there would be a "loud howl" when the WPA readjusts geographical differentials in monthly work relief wages, as the new act directs. He had explained previously that wages in the north and west would be reduced September 1, while those in the south would be increased. The law provides that differences in WPA rates in various sections shall be no greater than differences in the cost of living, but that the present national average—$52.20 a month—shall not be changed.

Threats Reported. Corrington Gill, acting WPA commissioner in Harrington's absence from the national capital, announced at Washington that he had asked the Department of Justice to determine whether penal provisions of the new law had been violated at East St. Louis.

He said he had been informed that large numbers of WPA employees had been prevented by threats and intimidation from going to work.

The law provides fines of not more than $2,000, imprisonment of not more than two years, or both, for persons using threats, intimidation or force to deprive anyone of benefits to which he is entitled under the relief appropriation.

Gill said the Justice Department had advised him it was transmitting the complaint to the United States attorney for the eastern district of Illinois.

Dinner Table Full of Flies?

Here's what to do. Before mealtime, close the dining room doors and windows. Use a good sprayer and fill the room with a mist of Bee Brand Insect Spray. Let the room stay closed for 15 minutes. When you go back the only flies will be dead flies on the floor.

Don't confuse Bee Brand Insect Spray with other insecticides. It has no nasty, tear-onion smell—only a clean cedar fragrance that soon disappears. And Bee Brand really kills flies, mosquitoes and other flying insects quick—yet it's entirely

Constitution in 'Honor Boxes'

Serve-Yourself Devices Containing Newspapers Placed at Strategic Points About the City.

Honor boxes, where "you pay your nickel and gets your Constitution," have been placed at strategic points about the city so the public can get their morning Constitution at any hour of the day and get it conveniently.

These new "serve yourself" boxes will not take the place of newsboys but have been placed at intersections and car stops where regular newsboys are not maintained.

Papers will be kept in these boxes all day and the "late sleepers" will be given a chance to get their paper just as readily and easily as the early birds who get up before the newsboys get off the streets.

The boxes have no automatic features and consist merely of a rack for the papers and a little lock box where the purchase price may be deposited on the "honor system" basis.

Locations of the boxes are at West Peachtree and North avenue; on Peachtree street at North avenue, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Seventeenth and Spring streets and Collier road; and on Ponce de Leon avenue at Penn avenue, Ponce de Leon place, Bonaventure, Highland and Moreland.

They are filled about 5 o'clock each morning and kept filled during the day. It is the first time the system has been tried here.

2 Atlantans, Another Sign in Naval Reserve for Florida Cruise.

Three former Georgia Tech students, two who live in Atlanta, have enrolled for aviation training as members of the naval reserve, it was announced yesterday by officials of the Georgia-Florida naval recruiting station at Macon. They are Lamar Edgar Binion, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Binion, of 532 Hardendorf avenue, N. E.;

George Tallafiero Rickett, of 2100 McLendon avenue, N. E., and Homer Gray Hutchinson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hutchinson, of Griffin, Ga.

Binion graduated from Tech High school in 1936, while Rickett is a graduate of Robert E. Lee High school. Hutchinson graduated from Canton High school, Canton, Ga., in 1934. All three graduated from Tech this year.

The three will undergo a month of elimination flight training at the naval reserve base, Opa Locka, Fla., before being transferred to the naval air station at Pensacola, Fla., for regular flight training.

2 DERBY FINALS SCHEDULED TODAY

Gainesville and Monroe To Stage Soap-Box Zone Races.

Two additional zone races in the sixth annual Soap Box Derby sponsored by The Constitution and Chevrolet dealers of the state to select representatives to compete in the north Georgia championship finals to be held in Atlanta July 22, will be held this afternoon, one at Gainesville and the other at Monroe. Four elimination tests already have been held and enthusiasm is keen as followers of the derby throughout the state prepare to converge on Atlanta for the finals, in which a representative from Georgia will be selected to participate in the national finals to be held at Akron, Ohio, August 13.

Fourth Annual Derby. This is the fourth year that a Soap Box Derby race has been held at Gainesville and the zone test this afternoon is being regarded as one of the largest and most interesting events held in Hall county and surrounding territory this year. The Gainesville event is being sponsored by the Gainesville Eagle and the Martin Motor Company, Chevrolet dealers in that section of the state.

Eight thousand people witnessed the race at Gainesville last year, and, according to estimates furnished by A. F. Dean, publisher of the Eagle, who will supervise today's race, the test this year should draw an even larger crowd. The list of entrants this year is larger than that of last year, according to Mr. Dean, and plenty of excitement is anticipated when the youthful racers speed down the course.

Expect Largest Crowd. Over at Monroe, derby officials are preparing to care for one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a similar affair in the three seasons it has been staged in the Walton county city. Last year more than 12,000 persons attended the zone race, said to be the largest crowd ever to witness an event of any sort in Monroe.

Bicycle Awaits Soap Box Derby Runner-Up

To the second-place winner in the Soap Box Derby staged here July 22 by The Constitution and Chevrolet dealers will go this fully-equipped Firestone bicycle displayed by A. H. Jensen, manager of Firestone Sales and Service Stores, which will make the award.

INDICTED FOR BRIBERY. ST. LOUIS, July 13.—(AP)—R. Emmet O'Malley, former state superintendent of insurance, was indicted by a state grand jury today on a charge of receiving a bribe of $62,500 in the 1936 Missouri fire insurance rate compromise settlement.

VISITOR SUGGESTS U. S. BUY, FINISH STONE MOUNTAIN

The Constitution's recent comparison between the success of the Mount Rushmore memorial and the dolorous state of the once spilt Stone Mountain memorial program, drew a constructive suggestion yesterday from a visitor—that the federal government should take over and complete the project.

Mrs. S. F. Williams, a guest of her daughter, Miss Inez Williams, 316 North avenue, N. E., compared the possibilities of the two memorials and declared Stone Mountain to have far greater virtue.

"Within a stone's throw of Atlanta is a world's wonder," Mrs. Williams declared. "Mount Rushmore can't compare with it. The government should buy it outright, create a park and finish the monument. It is a legitimate project, and think of the thousands who would rejoice through the years over this splendid tribute to the southern tradition—a truly American saga."

TOBACCO TAX ACT UPHELD BY COURT

Ruling Deals Blow to Out-of-State 'Mail-Order' Cigarette Business.

The state supreme court yesterday upheld constitutionality of the Georgia tobacco tax act which last year yielded $2,501,908.19.

Constitutionality had been questioned by the Cigarette Sales Company, of Murphy, N. C., whose petition for injunction against the State Revenue Commission had been upheld in DeKalb county superior court.

The supreme court overruled the lower court in its dismissal of revenue commission demurrers.

The North Carolina firm also sought $25,000 damages, claiming it had built up a mail cigarette sales business in Georgia which had been hurt by the commission actions.

An attorney for the Revenue Department said the decision meant that seizure of unstamped cigarettes shipped into Georgia now could proceed "full tilt."

The tobacco tax act requires shipments of cigarettes into Georgia must be stamped within two hours after they "come to rest."

'De-Welcomers' Arm Against Those Martins

If the martins give this a look it may be they won't be around tomorrow morning—at 3:30 o'clock—when between 200 and 300 youthful volunteers of Marietta set out with the Roman candles (shown) to serve as a de-welcoming committee. For ten years now, as Frank B. Wellons (above), generalissimo of the Marietta defense forces, will tell anybody—whether asked or not—Marietta has been battling wit for wit with the martins and getting nowhere. Now it's to be the Roman candles and flares, but no coffee, at dawn, to the death, or anyway to the departure, if any.

It's like this. These martins, thousands of them, have been coming down on Marietta's parks for years and years and making life pretty dismal for parkgoers. One year the defenders tried owls, but the owls were sent by mistake to Marietta, Ohio, so you can see right there what became of that. Virtually every form of noise known to man has been tried—in fact, there's only one counter-irritant that's been untried, namely, violence, which is illegal. So it's easy to understand why Fire Chief R. S. Hicks has that certain Cheshire cat look on his official puss as he poses above with a large set of the 1,000 Roman candles of 25-ball capacity each.

BUND ASSAILED.

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 13.—The German-American bund and other organizations working against American ideals, were heatedly denounced by Walker Flournoy, prominent businessman and realtor, in an address yesterday before the Rotary Club. Mr. Flournoy declared there are about 800 organizations in this country interested in overthrowing American government.

BARN FALLS, INJURES MAN.

DAWSONVILLE, Ga., July 13. David G. Barnes, of Dawsonville, was seriously injured here when a barn he was wrecking fell on him. He was taken to Tate hospital for treatment. Mr. Barnes is former chairman of the board of education of Dawson county.

PRESIDENT BRANDS
U. P. STORY FALSE'Reported Disagreement'
With Hull Over Neutrality
Stirs F. D. R.'s Wrath.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said in a formal statement today that the United Press had "been guilty of a falsification of the actual facts" in reporting that he and Secretary Hull had disagreed on the language of a neutrality message to congress.

The United Press story said the disagreement was reported in administration quarters. Mr. Roosevelt was described in the story as wanting to use forceful language in the message while Secretary Hull was said to have opposed language that might anger the Rome-Berlin axis and further antagonize an already rebellious senate.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement follows: "The reading public is entitled to a statement from the President—a statement of warning which has been made necessary by a news story issued through the United Press and already printed in one or more papers and on the United Press ticker service."

"The headline of the local Washington Times Herald states that the President and the secretary of state have 'split' on some form of note on neutrality."

"The story states that they 'were reported in administration quarters today to have disagreed on the language of a neutrality message.' The headline is, of course, wholly false. So is the story."

"The subterfuge of saying in the lead of the story that they were 'reported' to have disagreed is obvious because it is a practice too often engaged in to invent such 'reports' out of a clear blue sky, failing wholly to check up with any responsible source in Washington."

"The United Press has been guilty of a falsification of the actual facts. If called upon to give the source of the information they will decline to give it—another usual subterfuge."

"The fact remains that the story is contrary to every fact."

"I am calling this to the attention of the public because it represents a culmination of other false news stories to which the attention of the United Press has been called by me and by my office on previous occasions."

"It is, of course, impossible for the White House to deny every false story. This latest episode, however, represents the limit of any decent person's patience, and I am giving this in the form of a statement relating specifically to the United Press because I do not wish it to be considered as an indictment of the newspapers of the United States or other press associations."

"The fact of this particular case is that the press has been informed continuously for the past 36 hours that the President and the secretary of state have not decided, up to the present time, whether he will address any message to the congress or what the next step of the administration on neutrality will be. That is the truth, and it is a great pity that this simple truth, of which the press has been informed, has been disregarded by a press association."

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

'BASED ON INFORMATION FROM U. S. SOURCE'—U. P.

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—The United Press today incorporated the following information in a dispatch dealing with a statement by President Roosevelt that it had been "guilty of a falsification of the actual facts" in reporting that President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull had disagreed on the language of a neutrality message:

"The story which Mr. Roosevelt denied was prepared by Ronald G. Van Tine, head of the U. P. senate staff, and Gratian P. McGroarty, who covers the State Department. It carried Van Tine's signature."

"I wrote the dispatch," Van Tine said. "Some of the information was my own and some of it came from my colleague, McGroarty. It was based on information obtained from government sources."

"Lyle C. Wilson, manager of the Washington bureau of the United Press, said: 'The men who collaborated on that story are reliable, experienced reporters. I have discussed the story with them and believe that they faithfully reported the information they obtained in the normal process of their daily assignments.'"

"Wilson said he had been told that the President desired to see him at the White House at 4 p. m. and that he had been called before the President once before, on June 20, and criticized for a dispatch which he had written."

Isolationists Threaten Fight
On Embargo Against JapanTo Demand Thorough Discussion of Proposed Ban on War Materials.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Successful in blocking administration neutrality legislation, senate isolationists threatened today to give similar treatment to a proposed embargo on shipments of war-making materials to Japan.

The group's strategy committee met at length, and while, for publication, its members would say only that they intended to demand thoroughgoing discussion by the foreign relations committee, otherwise they made their opposition plain as day.

At the capitol, it was considered particularly significant that some of the group, who a few days ago were speaking favorably of the proposal, today spoke of it in entirely opposite terms.

Generally, it was thought the isolationists were endeavoring to form a united front on the proposal, as was done several days ago in connection with the neutrality bill.

The plight of the latter legislation, pigeonholed until next session by the foreign relations committee, continued meanwhile to be the subject of anxious discussion both at the capitol and in downtown Washington.

During the day, President Roosevelt said no decision had been reached as to whether a message would be sent to congress on the subject, or as to what the next step in the situation would be.

The Japanese embargo proposal was advanced by Chairman

Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, of the senate foreign relations committee.

The resolution is based upon an alleged violation of the nine-power Pacific treaty by Japan. In that pact the principal nations agreed to respect China's political and territorial integrity, and the rights of each other to the markets of that nation.

Not aimed at Japan directly by its language, the resolution would authorize the President to lay an embargo on war supplies, oil, iron and steel to any signatory of the pact which deprives the citizens of other nations of the rights guaranteed by the treaty.

Public Asked To Aid County Car Use Probe

Information To Be Held In Strict Secrecy, Law Promises; Special Jury Session Is Indicated.

Public co-operation with the Fulton county grand jury in its deal for information regarding alleged use of county-owned automobiles for private purposes is evident yesterday.

Thomas C. Law, foreman of the grand jury, who promised to hold information in confidence and use of the grand jury only, returned to Atlanta from a business trip last night to a desk piled high with letters.

He had "not yet digested" the communications, but it was indicated that scores had responded. In addition, many telephone calls had been made to his office during his absence.

Survey Planned.

Law said the grand jury will make a survey of the entire matter at its regular session today if sufficient time is left after noon.

It Pays To Give Credit —Ask the Man Who Got It

PENSACOLA, Fla., July 13.—(P)—You can't tell Charles E. Gray, 23-year-old Pensacola grocer, that it doesn't pay to do business on credit.

On September 7, 1936, Gray walked into Richard Henderson's grocery store to buy a package of cigarettes on credit. Gray knew Henderson and anticipated no trouble about charging the 15-cent item.

"Want to buy this store?" asked Henderson.

"How can I buy a store?" replied Gray. "I don't have any money. Why, I make only $7 a week and I'm buying these cigarettes on credit."

"You don't need any money," Henderson shot back at him. "Take it and pay me $10 a month."

Gray explained today that he accepted the proposition and Henderson picked up his hat and walked out without further ado.

"He hasn't been back since," Gray declared. "I don't know where he is and I haven't paid him the first $10. I have often wondered where Henderson is and why he didn't come back. I have heard that he has no relatives and nobody seems to know where he went."

Since that lucky day nearly three years ago, Gray has moved the store to a better location, tripled the stock, bought a car and got married.

He summed it all up with "Yes, sir, I certainly got a good break."

time business has been handled.

A five-hour session of the grand jury was held Tuesday in order that a discussion of the matter could be held. The jurors worked without lunch until 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

This gave rise to reports that special grand jury sessions may be inaugurated within the next few days if information in the hands of Law and other jurors warrants such action.

The Atlanta public yesterday, judging from the telephone calls and letters, appeared to be convinced that the order passed Wednesday at a special session of the Fulton commissioners failed to correct the alleged misuse of county machines by employees because it limited them to Fulton county only.

Observers pointed out that theaters, picnic grounds, pleasure rides, and even hunting is engaged in within the county, and that while the commission order forbids use of county machines outside the confines of the county, it failed to prohibit use of the machines for private purposes within the county.

Here are the Georgia license numbers of all the passengers cars owned by Fulton county, as well as the makes of car going with such license.

Clip this list out, and if you see a county car, carrying one of these license numbers, is not being used for official purposes, call Grand Jury Foreman Law. His number is: Office, Walnut 7140; residence, Hemlock 1026.

SAYS MATE DENIED WIFE WOUNDED HIM

Statement From Richard Claimed by Her Lawyer.

John A. Richard, 37, Marietta street liquor store and restaurant operator, who was shot and seriously wounded Wednesday last night denied that his wife had shot him, according to Russell Turner, attorney for the wife, Mrs. Jeanette Nell Richard.

Turner said he interviewed Richard at Georgia Baptist hospital, and that Richard told him the shooting was accidental and that he "didn't want Nell in jail."

Richard was reported as slightly improved at the hospital. He is suffering from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Richard, 37, remained at police headquarters, where she was booked Wednesday on a charge of "suspicion of shooting another." The shooting occurred at the Richard home, 320 Forrest avenue, according to police.

Vinson Would Refuse Appointment To Cabinet Naval Post, Friends Say

Secretary's Position, if Offered, Would Be Too Uncertain as to Tenure of Office; Edison Believed in Line for Job.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Friends of Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia, have let it be known in his behalf that he would not accept the vacancy in the cabinet resulting from the death of Secretary of the Navy Claude Swanson if President Roosevelt should tender the appointment.

The Georgia congressman, dean of the state delegation and chairman of the house naval affairs committee, is represented as feeling he would prefer to remain in his present position, where he exercises considerable influence in defining naval policy through legislation.

Uncertain Tenure.

Another consideration prompting Vinson in this attitude is the uncertain tenure of the cabinet post. If President Roosevelt, as many believe, does not intend to seek a third term all of the cabinet would go out of office with him.

Because of his extensive knowledge of naval affairs and his chairmanship of the house naval committee for the past nine years, Vinson's name was prominently projected into speculation over the vacancy immediately after Swanson's death. A number of his colleagues have urged his appointment, including Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Atlanta, who addressed a letter to the White House on the subject.

President Roosevelt is yet to give an indication of whom he may select, but with Vinson's self-elimination the odds have increased greatly on Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles A. Edison, son of the late electrical genius Thomas A. Edison.

Edison has served as acting head of the department for the past year or so, or since Swanson's illness prevented him from carrying out his duties regularly.

Changes Are Reported.

Reports have been heard of several contemplated cabinet changes. One is that Secretary of War Woodring is slated for appointment to a foreign ambassadorship, with Attorney General Frank Murphy booked for transfer to his place.

Vinson, who was at his home in Milledgeville at the time of Swanson's death, has returned to the capital, but made no comment.

LEGION INSTALLATION.

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 13.—Hoyt C. Brown, of Baxley, state commander of the American Legion, will visit the Valdosta post and assist in installing its new officers Friday night.

These young misses were selected the "most attractive girls" at the baby beauty contest held recently at Grant park. The judges just couldn't decide which was the most attractive, so they made duplicate awards. That's Margaret Joan Looney on the left and Sylvia Diane East on the right. Both had won baby contests before.

THIRD TERM OPPOSED BY 'COTTON ED' SMITH

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(P)—Senator Ellison D. "Cotton Ed" Smith, of South Carolina, Democratic dean of the senate, said today he was "unalterably" opposed to a third term nomination for President Roosevelt.

Smith, said in a statement his decision was not predicated upon administration attempts to purge him from the senate last year, but upon his belief a third term for any President "would be the beginning of dictatorship."

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 14, 1939.

Life Grows Safer

The state of Georgia has had 20.8 per cent fewer highway accidents this year than in the corresponding period of 1938.

The city of Atlanta has not had to record a single traffic fatality for 46 days, a longer period without the mark of the black angel of the streets than ever achieved before.

Only four states in the nation can show a greater improvement in automobile safety for this year than Georgia.

In Atlanta traffic deaths this year total 19, compared with 28 for the same period a year ago. Accidents, injuries and property damage have been reduced likewise.

There are several factors to which credit is due for this splendid showing.

In the city of Atlanta itself the reduced speed limit, to 25 mph., must be given a large part of the credit. Slower speed not only means fewer accidents, but the damage done and the danger to life in any accident is lessened in mounting ratio to the lower rate of movement.

Motorists of Atlanta have grown accustomed to the 25 mph. limit and, in general, obey it remarkably well. There are, to be expected, a certain number who violate the law daily, but the traffic police have been vigilant in enforcement and, on the whole, reasonable in their interpretation of the laws. True, there has been an occasional tendency to overdo the meticulous enforcement of minor traffic regulations, working unnecessary hardship in some cases. On the whole, however, only praise can be accorded to Captain Jack Malcom and the men of the traffic squad.

For the state as a whole the work done by the State Highway Patrol is chiefly responsible for the improvement. Georgia has never had an official body of men so carefully chosen, so well trained and so intelligent in the performance of their duties, as the patrol.

Commissioner Lon Sullivan, of the patrol, has won the sympathy and co-operation of every authority and of the vast majority of individual motorists of the state. His predecessor, Major Brewster, did a great job in formulating the spirit of the patrol at its inception and in instilling that spirit into the men of the unit. Commissioner Sullivan contributed a full share to this while he was subordinate to Major Brewster and, now that he has become commissioner himself, is carrying the job on with increasing efficiency.

Finally, high credit must be given to the individual motorists of Atlanta and of Georgia. Without their co-operation and willing observance of the rules of safe driving, the record could not have been achieved.

True, there are some motorists still on the roads who constitute a menace to all others. But the highway patrol is rapidly bringing them in line and, while perfection can never be attained in this activity of modern life, any more than there can be perfection in any human attribute the time will come when the work of the patrol will make Georgia highways safer than we now dream possible.

Mail Time Saver

"We are going to follow the Philadelphia experiment closely and if it is successful, we will make every effort to get similar service for Atlanta, immediately." These words were spoken last week by Postmaster Lon Livingston, as the first flight of a rotary wing plane shuttled mail from the Camden (N. J.) airport to the Philadelphia postoffice, a new development in speeding up transport of the air-mail.

This type of air service between Atlanta postoffice and Candler airport has many advantages to recommend it. The service would mean that Atlantans would have 35 minutes more before each departing plane in which to mail their speed letters downtown. It would also mean delivery of incoming letters just that much quicker, too. At present, 40 minutes is the average time it takes mail trucks to move in and out of traffic over the seven miles between the field and the postoffice. A rotary wing type plane, or autogiro, such as is now being used in Philadelphia, could take off and land between these two points in five minutes. There would be a tremendous annual saving in time, too, due to the fact that 10 round trips are made daily by mail trucks between the postoffice and airport. Proponents of the idea here also point out that a comparatively inexpensive landing spot for an autogiro could be constructed over the railroad yards adjacent to the new Postoffice building—seconds from the Postoffice and Terminal and Union stations.

Postmaster Livingston is looking ahead in a practical way when he states he is watching this experiment closely with a view toward its future adoption in this city.

New NLRB Rules

The announcement from Washington by Chairman Madden, of the National Labor Relations Board, of new rules, thought to be more equitable, will doubtless come as a welcome relief to businessmen of the nation. It has long been the complaint of industry that the board, operating under the provisions of the Wagner act, was not always impartial in framing its regulations or rendering its decisions.

The news of the changes came in the form of letters to Senator Thomas, of Utah, and to Congressman Norton, of New Jersey, who head the committees on labor relations in the two houses of congress. Four important changes were announced, effective Friday, July 14, changes which it is felt will go far toward removing the cause of industry's criticism of the board.

A minimum of 10 days, instead of five, will be allowed under the new rules between filing of unfair labor practice charges and the date set for a hearing on the charges. Employers, as well as employees, will be permitted to petition for collective bargaining elections. If the validity of a labor contract between a bona fide union and an employer is challenged, the union must be made a party to any proceedings which the NLRB may institute. A union, alleged to be company-dominated, must be served a complaint and be permitted to become a party, if it desires, to NLRB proceedings involving its status.

Only time and experience can tell whether the changes will bring about the greatly-to-be-desired peace between labor and industry, as well as remove the supposed cause for criticism against the board. It is not to be doubted, however, that the members of the board are in quest of a perfectly equitable set of regulations for adjusting differences and it would seem steps have been taken in the proper direction.

In Marble Halls

Consider the New York white wings, the men who sweep and water the great city's streets, gather the trash and handle the garbage from Flatbush to the Bronx. Now the white wings know what it's like to dwell in marble halls.

All of the 441 acres of the magnificent Long Island estate of the late Otto H. Kahn is theirs—the 100-room mansion built in the style of a French chateau, the tennis courts, indoor swimming pool, paneled library, vast dining room, the rolling wooded countryside, the broad shaded avenues. It was among all this elegance and outward signs of wealth the late great art patron and banker once lived, on a truly lavish scale. A million-dollar place, no less, for it was once assessed at $1,100,000.

Now, the Kahn estate belongs to the white wings. Three weeks or more ago the New York sanitation department acquired the property. The price was a "modest figure," and the money came from the department's welfare fund. The idea was to provide the department's employees and families with a vacation place and, in some instances, a permanent dwelling. Already, the 14,500 employees and their families have begun registering for 21-day vacations. The house is ready to take 150 rooms. More will be accommodated as new furniture is installed. There are rooms for single men, couples, and groups of children. Each room is fitted like a hotel room and, on the first floor, there is a cafeteria, next to the dining room. There is a children's playground and an 18-hole golf course. There are cottages and small farm buildings, which will accommodate families at low cost. Employees will pay a dollar a day for themselves and families, plus a little extra for food.

Thus the white wings and their families take over. Somehow, one gets the feeling that Kahn, whose varied activities included many philanthropic works, would rather like the idea of his estate being used to bring happiness to plain, working people.

A beleaguered Briton at Tientsin says his clothes were removed and he was struck from behind. This is new—the no-overcoat with a belt in the back.

An august solon says the custom of having others compose one's flowery orations dates back to ancient Rome. It is the clearest identification so far of great Caesar's ghost.

At Oakland, Cal., a man blew a bubble measuring seven feet across. It burst, however, before the big securities issue could be placed.

It's more and more a question whether to have the child's tonsils and adenoids yanked, or let it grow up to do the vocals with a dance band.

Editorial of the Day

LINGUAL CULTURE.

(From the Florida Times-Union.)

Of all people of the world, Americans are probably the most uni-lingual, because of their separation from nations where languages other than English are spoken.

American people need some fundamental education in lingual culture, if not in manners, for they are without a doubt crude when it comes to making adjustments to people of different speech. Crude is the word for their shortcoming, for even within their own country, where there are as many dialects as there are states, American people regard visitors from other sections of the United States, who do not speak their own peculiar brogue, with frank amusement.

The time has come for Americans to realize that language is a vehicle for the expression of the noblest thoughts and emotions of a people, and is something apart from the ephemeralities of the world.

The ability to understand the traditions of a people through their language is a mark of culture which the American people do not possess.

If the Europeans—who, of course, are polyglot because of the short distance across border lines—allowed prejudice and language to become confused, the continental situation would stay more hopelessly muddled than it is.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

DEFEAT ON NEUTRALITY WASHINGTON, July 13.—The senate foreign relations committee's postponement of neutrality act revision will be a subject of controversy for many years. Officials of the State Department, whose duty and life work it is to know the facts of foreign affairs, are almost unanimous that the senate committee vote has vastly increased the chance of war in this troubled world. Isolationist senators, who presumably absorb knowledge of foreign problems from the circumambient air, are equally positive that this country has been saved from a dire fate.

The 12 senators who voted for postponement did so after specific, personal warnings from Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who has access to the entire body of expert advice and information. He reasoned at length with those who would still listen. He told them that failure to remove the neutrality act's arms embargo at this session would be regarded by the Fascist nations as an open invitation to aggression. He estimated that their vote would raise the odds on world disaster to considerably better than even.

Under the circumstances, unless you believe that all American experts on foreign problems are natural-born traitors to their country, it is a little difficult to be dispassionate in discussing the matter. The difficulty will be increased if war comes within the next two years. For then, if the State Department is not mistaken, the senators will learn that it was this country's interest to try to avert a catastrophe which will surely involve everyone.

A FEW WRONG CHOICES Meanwhile, the vote in the foreign relations committee affords an interesting demonstration of the legislative process. To say that neutrality revision has been incredibly bungled by the administration is to underestimate the situation by a large margin.

If revision had been pressed for earnest in the session, it would almost certainly be over and done with now. If, when action was finally decided on, the question had been immediately presented to the senate, the committee majority for revision would have been at least 13 to 10 and possibly 14 to 9. And finally, if the revision question had been squarely presented to the committee on Tuesday, the majority would still have been the other way by one vote. In truth, the wrong choice was made whenever it was possible to make a choice at all.

THE TRAGEDY From the start, there were 11 senators in the committee favoring revision, led by the chairman, Key Pittman, and including the most faithful adherents of the President. Equally, there were nine senators, including such Democratic isolationists as Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri, and the main body of the Republicans, who were unalterably opposed. The situation turned, therefore, on three men, Walter F. George, of Georgia; Guy M. Gillette, of Iowa; and Wallace White, of Maine.

The first two were intended victims of last summer's purge; the third is a Republican. Senator George, while from the traditionally internationalist south, is very bitter against the President and was openly dubious of removal of the arms embargo. He was a doubtful case. But Gillette and White might certainly have been won over. A few weeks ago, when the administration gathered itself together to act, Gillette actually introduced a bill partly drawn at the State Department and closely paralleling the Bloom bill passed by the house. He has always believed in lifting the embargo. If he had been asked to vote to consider the Bloom bill, he would have done so. As it was, Senator Pittman put the slightly different question, whether consideration of the neutrality act should be postponed. Splitting a hair, Gillette voted for postponement.

As for White, he unfortunately attended the isolationists' meeting in the office of Senator Hiram Johnson some days ago. He went under the impression that the purpose was only general discussion. He found himself rushed into a legislative commitment which he subsequently regretted. And well he might, for he is one of the least isolationist men in the senate. He frankly favors England and France over the Fascist nations, would prefer complete repeal of the neutrality act, and, if war comes, is understood to be ready to advocate the exportation of arms in aid of the democracies.

Under the circumstances, the votes of White and Gillette seem ludicrously unreasonable, particularly as the major explanation of both men is that action should not be taken in a time of tension, when tension will be so much greater if war comes. The real reason, of course, is the confusion prevailing in the senate—a confusion composed of an ostrich-like refusal to see unpleasant facts, an obstinate distrust of expert advice, a certain amount of partisanship, and a general fear of the President. The tragedy is that the confusion's result brings final chaos appreciably closer. If you doubt that, read the German and Italian newspapers.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

*I'm sorry for those who hate too much,
For this is the hate's fate,
He poisons his mind with leprous touch,
He murders his soul, with hate.*

Human

Amoebae.

I don't know if the Amoebae, that primary form of life, has any power to think, or not. Maybe, in choosing it as the living thing which most surely lacked the power to hold an opinion, I am doing the little Amoeba an injustice.

However, I don't think a form of life which is nothing but a little mass of protoplasm can do anything about it if I am casting unjust aspersions upon its brain power.

However, let's get on with the discussion. A good friend of mine was sitting in the next chair, the other afternoon, and we were chatting about this and that. A subject much in the public mind came up and I expressed a certain degree of bewilderment and fear of the ultimate effect of a certain trend in public affairs.

Said my friend: "I'm glad I don't have a job which requires you to hold opinions about things. Too much to worry over, for my liking."

Which is a very well, and doubtless conducive to placid existence, but isn't such refusal to exercise the old gray matter, and to acquire an opinion, rather along the order of slacking, for a presumably intelligent human being?

After all, what are we going to do with the power for if not to form opinions? And, if we don't reason about things, and acquire some opinions, aren't we, in reality all that matters, demoting ourselves in the order of nature back into the ranks of the Amoebae? Mentally, at least.

Really, it's ## Important.

Actually, this matter of logical thinking and the ability to form opinions is a serious thing, a vital necessity if the form of human government and national organization we know in America is to continue.

For this nation is governed by "We, the people." It is upon the intelligent opinions of all the people, expressed through their ballots, that the entire structure rests. If the people refuse to think, if they are too stupid to really have opinions of their own, the whole thing we call American democracy is destined to come tumbling down into ruin.

It isn't necessary that the opinions any individual forms be right. Only that they be his own, the result of his own reasoning. And it is well that he does not hold those opinions with excessive stubbornness. You may feel sure you are right, you know, and yet concede that the fellow on the other side of the argument, after all, has the right. Or, more likely, that the truth lies somewhere betwixt and between.

Out of the compilation of all the opinions, in a full functioning democracy, comes the decision of the people. It may take years to arrive at ultimate truth or justice. There may be many false judgments. But, in the end, the law of average must prevail as well as that ancient axiom that truth will rise again.

Unless the ## People Think.

Unless the people think, for themselves, any democracy is doomed to resign itself into a dictatorship of those who make government a profession. Unless the people have the courage of their convictions, democracy must fall under the control of those who would manipulate the people, and the people's money, for their own enrichment.

When the voters, in too great proportion, refuse to take interest in public affairs, when they refuse to think, when they prefer to remain in the torpor of the political Amoeba, then the Fascist wax fat and the people suffer.

All of which works around to the appeal to every citizen, man or woman, to take active, intelligent interest in the affairs of all governments—local, county, state and national.

It is the political Amoebae who are the real traitors to the ideals of this nation, the men and women who form the greatest menace of all to living democracy. The subversive workers on behalf of foreign conceptions of government, the agents of the isms, amount to nothing in the war on Americanism, when compared to those who would resent the slightest impeachment of disloyalty, yet who shut their eyes and ears and minds to the government of which they are a part.

For God's sakes, if you believe in Americanism, don't be an Amoeba. Use the mind God gave you and study and think until you have opinions of your own, any sort so long as they are honest opinions and you're proud of 'em.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

More Needed NEW YORK, July 13. It was damned nice of the Labor Relations Board to restore to American citizens who employ workmen their constitutional right to "petition the government for redress of grievances," but a few more gracious concessions must be made before employers and workmen both may consider themselves safe from the tyranny of the board and the vicious dictatorships which the board has fostered in labor unions.

Employers still lack the right to speak freely—a right specifically granted by the constitution but suspended by the board with the casual high-handedness of a Soviet court deciding to knock off a handful of political dissenters—and Americans who prefer not to belong to labor unions and thus pay cash tribute out of their wages to the funds of the New Deal, the Spanish Communists or the Communists' conspiracy against the United States, may be compelled to join up and pay or forfeit their right to work for a living in their own country.

An alien with hatred in his heart and soul for everything that is American, by subscribing to union policies and contributing to union funds, which then vanish into activities that strike at the American form of government, may acquire the power to vote away a native American's right to earn his living in a land for which he can be compelled to fight while the alien sits it out.

Fiendish

Coercion

And the board has done nothing to curb fiendish acts of coercion by which labor racketeers with a strike on their hands, even a strike manipulated solely for the extension of individual power, may terrorize the families of American citizens who stand on their right to retain their jobs. The employer may not even speak a word of sympathy to a persecuted American citizen who has the courage to oppose the union when a strike is on, for that would be a coercive attempt to influence the worker. But the union may throw rocks through the windows of his home, gang him up in his way to and from work, beat his head off at the picket line, insult and maul his wife and terrorize his children, and, when the strike is won by such methods, may blackmail him from his occupation for the rest of his life.

This fair union practice on the part of the union regardless of the individual's standing as a citizen, his record of service in his country's wars or the contrast between his character and that of the union leader in command of the machine or racket.

The efficiency of the board in abolishing by dictatorial decree the employer's right to discuss union matters with men in his employ on the ground that they might be trying to coerce them has never been sufficiently appreciated. Here was an outright abrogation by a subdepartment of the government of a right which the government itself protects with the mad-eyed fury of an avenger when the complaint comes from the saboteur, and the abrogation of this right of American citizens in these circumstances has been followed by rulings that it was unfair labor practice on the part of an employer even to send an employee a document criticizing union tactics through James A. Farley's mails.

On the ## Other Hand

The union, however, may, ever, may circumscribe the late among the employees the most scurrilous libels and misrepresentations of the facts of a controversy, with intent to influence them by a deceit or to ship them into submission by the use of terror. There is no established limit to the coercion that may be practiced on workmen by the union, and not even the faintest pretense has been made of an attempt to restrain racketeers from the use of moral, physical and economic intimidation.

The fake cry that unionists represent the rights of the public with no really audible dissent, because those who refuse to join unions, or do join them under silent protest, have lacked a means of presenting their case. The employer and the labor faker can make themselves heard, but the persecuted individuals in the middle receive no hearing from the public and no respect from a government board which was established for the frank purpose of assisting organized labor. Men who rebel at union extortions and job trusts and suffer from union political rules have no protection from practices and rules which are no less ruthless than those which industry was accused of and equally destructive of their rights as American citizens.

These are a few little wrinkles in labor administration which might be ironed out before the labor relations board can sit back and sprinkle itself with praise for guarding the sacred rights of labor.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

MONEY TALKS FOR ENGLAND A week or so ago there was a cartoon in one of the weekly magazines best describing a state of mind existing today. The cartoon showed a newspaper boy with his papers under one arm. He was shouting:

"Extra! Extra! Not a word about Hitler. Not a word about Hitler!"

There were customers flocking to him for that unique edition. I feel just that way about Adolf. I would just as soon not hear his name again.

Nevertheless, I am wondering. That quiet and peace in Europe is so deep and still; so lovely and filled with seeming sweetness and light, that one wonders if Adolf is worried. It is quite possible he is or isn't. No one may be sure. He may be waiting for the crops to be gathered before taking Danzig. Or it may be certain events have given him cause to pause.

It is possible that England's money has begun to talk. Gold, of which we have more than anyone else, still is a tremendous factor in war. It is all very well to go off the gold standard, but when war comes they will do their slaughter with gold, not with silver or paper notes. It will be possible for Germany to buy her materials only with gold.

The English people have demonstrated their willingness to absorb the cost of preparation. Another billion has been voted the army. And England has gold and credit.

SELF-SUFFICIENCY Germany has made more progress toward self-sufficiency than any other nation. Last year in Germany I saw some of the plants manufacturing synthetic gasoline, soap and fats.

Riding with the officer of a German business one day, he pointed out a large tree and said:

"I think I will have my tailor do me a suit from that tree."

He referred to the tremendous progress made in creating fiber from wood pulp with which cloth is woven to make suits, dresses and coats.

Yet the facts are that Germany has about $400,000,000 in gold reserve. Another $100,000,000 might be added by melting up reserves from gold rings, jewelry and so on.

Mussolini has no more than $250,000,000. And cannot get more. Neither gold reserve would last long in event of war. This explains why Germany so desperately is seeking to become self-sufficient and why great reserves of food and materials are being stored. It explains Goering's statement: "We have chosen between butter and guns."

War on a major scale costs about $10,000,000 per day. One of the large bombs which are dropped from planes on civilian populations would buy and furnish a small home for a family of three. They drop dozens of them in one day of bombing. War costs money. And the money must be gold.

FOOD FOR THE HUNGRY

Germany was able to survive for four years in the last world war only because of Sweden and Denmark. The former sent iron ore and wood and the latter food. England got food from Denmark also and one of the horror chapters of war deals with the agreement in which English and German representatives sat down together and agreed to let food ships through. It meant prolonging the war and it meant the death of thousands but the submarines had lessened England's food supply and the government didn't dare face the threat of a hungry people. The next war will see some quick action on Denmark and probably on the iron mines in north Sweden.

In the late stages of the war, Sweden was in need of food. Germany shipped potatoes from German ports while the crowds rioted for food. Hungry Germans watched their scant supply of food leave their ports to pay for more iron.

War isn't pretty in any of its aspects except in this one—that men are willing to die in them for what they believe, rightly or not, are principles important enough for one's life to be lost.

England's money—building alliances with Rumania, Poland, Greece and Turkey—has been spent to the amount of $1,000,000,000.

Germany, with only $500,000,000 in the kitty, has enough coal but must get two-thirds of her iron ore from Sweden; is badly off for oil and has little of the fourth war ingredient—gold.

I hope that's why Hitler is quiet.

It Is Shameful to Give Him Pottage If It Tricks Him Out of His Birthright

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

When the storm had finished wrecking the old order in Russia, about half of the surviving gentry seemed to be washed up on the shores of the Mediterranean. Stranded there, and broke, big and little nobles fed on charity—American, of course. And they were very grateful for a little temporary assistance. Soon they would be on their feet again.

But as the months passed their attitude changed. They never had worked and had no thought of doing such a degrading thing now. Their pleasant world, which others had built, had been destroyed, and they would wait patiently until somebody built another. Meanwhile they had to eat, and it was only fair that somebody should feed them. Believe it or not, they began to complain about the service.

This attitude aroused some heartless and hard-boiled criticism, but it was so natural as to be almost inevitable. The sum of two and two always comes out four.

Ambition, greed and other emotions can make us bestir ourselves, but it isn't our nature to pay more than necessary, whether in coin or effort. If a soft snap is offered, we take it; and before long we regard it as a vested right.

During these abnormal times, many writers and speakers have told us that youth no longer has any opportunity, whatever that means, and the natural result has been that many boys and girls have accepted defeat without making a fight. They accept some kind of pinch-penny living and resign themselves to it.

This doesn't mean they are by nature less adventurous than their fathers and grandfathers.

Thirty and 50 and 70 years ago, it was considered normal and proper for a young man to leave home when he reached his majority and become "his own man." If he was uncommonly independent and self-reliant, he left at 18 or 19.

COURT OF APPEALS ANGELS TAX RULE ON CLAY PROPERTY

Limitation Period on Assessments Under Act of 1929, Says Decision in Wilkinson Case.

There is no period of limitation on the enforcement of tax assessments under the income tax act of 1929, the Georgia court of appeals ruled yesterday.

The high court reversed a ruling of the Wilkinson superior court in long fight between the State Revenue Commission and the Ed-Brothers Company, a New Jersey corporation holding clay properties in Wilkinson county. The revenue department contended the company owed the state $6,539 for the tax years of 1929 and 1930 as a result of including Georgia and New Jersey products in tax return. The company filed claim of illegality which once upheld by the court of appeals is to be reversed by the supreme court where it was taken on certiorari.

In its decision the court of appeals held that the burden of proof the company's contention that the tax assessment is invalid is on the company.

Value of the company's property Georgia was listed at $465,000 outside the state $36,000, while sales in Georgia were listed at $53,000 and outside the state $975,000.

Form Club To Promote Better Government, Officials

The camera looked in on the organization meeting last night of Progressive Young Americans, formed for "civic-mindedness and cleaner and better government." Left to right are Archie Lindsey, first vice president; J.

W. H. Lovett Denies Participation In Fight for County Consolidation

Laurens County Representative Claims Statement Attributed to Him Was 'Rivers Propaganda,' Hits 'Waste and Extravagance' of State Administration.

Replying to a story printed in many newspapers in the state, W. H. Lovett, of Dublin, Laurens county representative, sent a letter to The Constitution yesterday denying certain statements attributed to him in the newspapers.

The story dealt with the possibility of a "big county vs. little county" fight in Georgia in connection with the state financial situation. Representative Lovett's letter follows:

"In the concluding part of this article the charge is made that I have been assisting in a movement which seeks the abolition of a large number of the small counties. Author Not Disclosed. 'The article does not disclose its author, neither does it furnish any proof of the charge made against me. This is to be expected when deliberate and intentional misrepresentations are made. The author of this article, according to my information, is upon the public pay roll and is in charge of propaganda being handed out by Governor Rivers and his followers. The purpose of this article is very evident. Realizing that the people of Georgia are aroused over the waste and extravagance of Governor Rivers' administration and suffering under the burden of taxes, an effort is being made to divert the attention of the people from these facts and to create a prejudice on the part of the people against those of us who have been fighting for economy and efficiency in our state government. If this propaganda should be successful it would, of course, create suspicion upon our purposes and our motives, and with this in mind this article is being circulated by the propaganda department of Governor Rivers.

"At no time have I ever advocated the consolidation of counties, nor have I ever assisted in such a movement. This fact was known to the author of this article. My whole fight as a member of the general assembly has been eliminating waste and stop extravagance in the present administration, and it is this fight which is responsible for the article referred to.

"The people of Georgia are beginning to realize what has been and is happening in Atlanta, and they are expressing themselves in no uncertain terms with reference to the threat of new taxes. No administration in the history of the state has been so wasteful and so extravagant, and instead of co-operating with the general assembly in an effort to reduce this waste and extravagance they seek by every known method to continue on such a course and to defeat any effort to end it.

"I can assure the people of the smaller counties of Georgia that so far as I am concerned, no effort has been or will be made to consolidate or abolish any of these counties. I am fighting for more important things, and in spite of the poisonous propaganda being handed out I shall continue to fight for efficiency and economy in our state government."

THE ALLIANCE.
What are you going to do about the weather during the alliance? That is another of the oft-asked questions.

Really, we hadn't intended to do anything about the weather, except talk about it. For my own part, I am not worrying a minute about the weather. If it rains, that will be fine. If it doesn't rain, that will be fine. If it rains, it will be cooler. If it doesn't rain, the sun will shine longer that day.

There will be some 10,000 seats at Ponce de Leon park not covered, which means that if we should have a shower during one of the sessions, the folks in those seats will have to run to shelter.

minute, requiring that for each needy aged person receiving as much as $40, the state should contribute a minimum of $10.

To this, the government would add $15. Yesterday the senate wrote into the measure a provision that the government should double state contributions up to $5, and match them evenly above that figure.

These two changes made by the senate were expected by the leaders to furnish the principal controversy when the time comes for drafting a compromise between the senate and house versions of the legislation.

Georgia in Low Bracket. Twenty-eight states, it developed, are now contributing less than $10. These, according to a table inserted in the record by Senator Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, are:

Oklahoma, Kansas, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Illinois, Missouri, Maryland, North Dakota, Nebraska, Michigan, Indiana, Vermont, Texas, Florida, West Virginia, Tennessee, New Mexico, Delaware, Louisiana, Virginia, Alabama, North Carolina, Georgia, Kentucky, South Carolina, Mississippi, Arkansas and Iowa.

The senate rejected proposals that old-age pensions be increased to $40 and $30 monthly and declined to recommit the bill, as urged by Senator Downey, Democrat, California, for a study of the Townsend old-age pension plan.

On final passage six Republicans and two Democrats voted against the measure. The former were: Bridges, New Hampshire;

YOUNG MEN FORM 'AMERICAN' CLUB

Group To Promote 'Better and Cleaner Government, Officials.'

A group of 31 young men met last night in a downtown hotel and organized the Progressive Young Americans, for "cleaner and better government and officials."

Officers chosen were Milton Ferris, president; Archie Lindsey, first vice president; Frank Callaway Jr., second vice president; Jim Patton, third vice president; W. Fred Orr, secretary, and Bert Lanier, treasurer.

Purposes of the group, it was stated, are to make men between 21 and 40 more civic minded, to educate with a view toward better government and to interest in all phases of governmental problems.

The organization is nonsectarian and nonpartisan.

in the walkways in and under the grandstand. But, remember this, we have very few ball games delayed or postponed at Ponce de Leon park because of rain, which leads me to the conclusion that on the law of averages we shall not run any great risk of having very much rain. Even so, there will be 18,000 seats under cover at the park, and that will be a right good-sized congregation.

How are we going to hear out there in that big park? Another reasonable question, and one I am glad to answer.

We have contracted for one of the finest public address systems, and we are fully assured that the people on the farthest row of seats from the speakers' stand will hear just as well as those on the front seats. The contract further provides for picking up the big choirs, the organ, the pianos, the many features of the pageant, etc.

How will the folks be seated? By conventions. For example, the National Baptist convention, the Northern Baptist convention, the British Baptist Union, the Canadian Baptist convention, the National Baptist convention of America, the Southern Baptist convention, the Australian Baptist convention, and so on, through the list.

There will be placards indicating the sections of the auditorium and stadium where these respective conventions will be seated, and the ushers will direct the folks to their sections as they indicate which convention they belong to.

There is just room left in this column to tell you that the Salvation Army band will give a concert at the Ponce de Leon park sessions every evening, from 7 to 7:30 o'clock, and in between the band numbers Mr. Hoffman will lead us in mass singing.

RECALL TOO LATE, SENATE INFORMED

President Says He Already Named Davies to U. S.
Judgeship.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told the senate today that its request for reconsideration of the appointment of Elmer D. Davies as federal district judge in middle Tennessee came too late.

The senate confirmed the nomination yesterday afternoon, but a few hours later voted to recall it from the White House after Senator Barbour, Republican, New Jersey, said the "colored people of New Jersey" opposed the appointment because Davies admitted he had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

The President said the formal request of the senate to return its resolution confirming Davies reached him at 12:20 p. m., today, and added: "I regret that I can not accede to this request as before its receipt I had signed and sent out a commission appointing Judge Davies, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to the position named in the resolution."

Barbour, and Chairman Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, of the senate judiciary committee, who objected to the confirmation of Davies out of the regular order, withheld comment on the President's communication. Barbour said he would have something to say in the senate tomorrow.

New City Personnel Board To Hear 35 Witnesses at First Trial Today

Thirty-five witnesses last night had been summoned for the first trial to be held today by the new personnel board of the city of Atlanta.

L. L. Thurmond, ousted guard at the Hilliard street city prison, has appealed to the board for reinstatement. He was discharged several days ago by H. H. Gibson, superintendent. He will be represented in his appeal by former Mayor Pro Tem. Alvin L. Richards.

The trial will begin at 11 o'clock before Gus Harper, chairman, presiding; Aubrey Milam, secretary; James P. Allen, member, and City Attorney Jack C. Savage and Carl

T. Sutherland, personnel director. H. J. Cates, superintendent of the sanitary department, returned to Atlanta from a short vacation trip and said he will investigate circumstances under which Paul R. Gentry, sanitary truck driver, and L. T. Aiken, stoker at the crematory, were suspended and reinstated.

Inspectors of the department filed charges against the men, and they were suspended for 15 days each, but were reinstated by a Savage ruling that only the department head could prefer charges. It was understood that they were still subject to disciplinary action.

WEEP FOR LOVE

Betty Meets Kim at Selbys' Dance. He Doesn't Know Who She Is.

By RUBY M. AYRES.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. When Derek Chaloner's wife dies, the stodgy English landowner, whose marriage has been the result of a family understanding, is really glad of his freedom, vowing he will never marry again. Then he sees dainty Stella Dawson playing a small part in a suburban theater and is an ardent suitor. She marries him. Imposing Narrow Lane Hall depresses Stella but he ignores her request that they live in his smaller house in London. When the baby is born she is happy until the Chaloner tradition puts little Elizabeth in charge of nurse, then governess, Stella and Derek's friends are not congenial and after seven years is increasing unhappiness she welcomes the open adoration of Pip Hulbert. When divorce threatens, Stella pleads with Derek for Betty. He refuses and after her mother marries she she pines, becomes very ill and Derek's doctor says she will die if not permitted to go to her mother. When Elizabeth is 16, Pip is killed in an accident and Stella is inconsolable. While on a bus trip a year later Elizabeth meets Kim Lawless, whose wood she invited to pick primroses despite a warning to trespassers. She likes him and he says he loves her. Derek dies, leaving a will providing that Elizabeth get half of his wealth if she leaves Stella and lives with her Aunt Thornley. Penelope, her stepmother, hears this news and can't understand when Elizabeth says she will remain with her mother. Lawless, Elizabeth learns, was to have married Penelope, but broke his engagement. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT VII.

She liked Roy Selby, but his open admiration scared her. The big hall seemed full of people when she entered, but Roy saw her at once and came forward, saying: "I was afraid you were not coming." "Am I late?" Elizabeth asked. "No, you're not late, but I hoped you'd be earlier." He took her away to dance in the big drawing room. "What a ripping frock!" he said. His mother touched his arm as they passed. "You're not to monopolize Elizabeth," she said, but she smiled, for she knew all about Derek Chaloner's will and she thought that it would be exceedingly wise if her son elected to marry for love where money was. It was very hot in the ballroom, although the windows were all wide-flung to the garden, which was cunningly lit with colored lights, and there was a long buffet table spread beneath the trees. "It's almost like being in the country," Elizabeth said when, between dances, she and Roy went outside. "We shall be in the country next week," he told her. "My people have a place in Somerset, you know, and they always shut this house up during August." He glanced down at her a little diffidently. "Any use the mater asking you to come too?" he asked. Elizabeth's first thought was, "Oh, yes," for she longed to get away from London and from what she rather pathetically called "best clothes" and to be free. But would it be freedom to stay with the Selbys? She was not sure. They would probably have a big house party and life would be very much the same as it was in London.

Roy saw her hesitation and he added persuasively: "I think you'd like it. It's rather a lovely old place—garden and all that, and we're not far from the sea. It won't be a full house, either. Just a couple of my friends and a girl Barbara is friendly with." Barbara was his sister who had been abroad "finishing," so Elizabeth had met her on only one occasion. "It sounds lovely," she said warmly. "It would be if you'd come," he answered. "You love the country, don't you?" "I was born in the country." "I'll get the mater to ask you," he told her eagerly. "She likes you, you know. She was only saying last night that you're not the modern type of damsel and that it's quite refreshing." "I'm afraid I'm really rather dull," Elizabeth apologized. "Dull!" he laughed. "Well, all I can say is, if you're dull, I wish everyone was the same." He stopped by the buffet. "What about an ice? Or a cool drink?" "Yes, please—an ice." "I'll find you a seat—why, hullo!" he broke of as a man crossed the lawn from the house and spoke his name. "Hello, Selby!" Elizabeth turned quickly and there was a startled look in her eyes as she raised them to the man's face and, meeting them, he smiled in astonishment. "Why—how do you do?" "Do you two know each other?" Roy asked blankly. Then he laughed. "Is there a girl in the world you don't know, you old rascal?" Kim Lawless laughed, too, as he stretched an involuntary hand to Elizabeth. "We have met before," he said. Roy shrugged his shoulders. "Well, don't spirit her away while I get an ice cream," he said, and left them. "This is a very pleasant surprise," Lawless said. "I have often wondered whether we should meet again, but I did not expect it to be here of all places." "I wonder you remembered me," she answered. She looked a little pale and her voice was not steady. "Did you ever visit the primroses again?" he asked. She smiled. "No—I didn't," and she remembered that only a few hours after her meeting with this man, she had been called upon to bear the greatest sorrow of her life. "I did," he said. "I went the next day—and the following week, too. Somehow, I thought you would be there." There was the tiniest pause before she answered. "My mother died—soon after you caught me trespassing." His face changed. "I'm so terribly sorry." Roy came back with a large

RED INFILTRATION INTO ARMY IS TOLD

Witness Against Bridges Describes Communists' 'Social Clubs' for Soldiers.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—
(P)—New Communist techniques of infiltration in the United States army and navy and state militias were described by a government witness in the Harry Bridges deportation case today, in testimony in which the word "murder" was linked with the party.

The witness, John L. Leech, former party organizer in Los Angeles, said that on orders from Russia the party had abandoned its efforts to create "Communist cells" in battleships and troops, and had organized "social clubs"
for soldiers where Communists could mingle with them.

Young Reds Assigned.
Leech, a house painter, said that as a party official he had
"assigned 500 to 600 members of the Young Communist League or of the Communist party to become members of the national guard in California."

Sending members into the army was abandoned, he said, because of possible international friction between Russia and the United States. Communists no longer join the militia, he added, because they might have to oppose the workers on strike duty.

Bridges, west coast CIO director and maritime leader, was served with a complaint naming him codefendant with John L. Lewis and a publication, the "Timber Worker," in a $100,000 libel suit filed by the Oregon-Washington Council of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers of America, AFL.

Defamation Charged.
The complaint charged that writings in the "Timber Worker," organ of CIO lumber workers, had defamed the AFL group.

Leech, who has repudiated an earlier statement declaring Bridges was not a Communist, said he only signed that statement at the behest of Communist party members because he feared physical violence and other reprisals if he refused.

He said he "knew definitely" of men having been assigned to "beat-up squads," and personally knew that the Communist party had participated in cases where murder has been committed.

Dean James M. Landis, presiding officer at the four-day-old hearing, broke into Leech's testimony, however, when Leech said party members were instructed that "the giving of false testimony is of no consequence in a capitalistic court."

Landis asked whether Leech wished to leave the impression that he himself had previously testified false in court, and Leech replied, "I'm afraid it has to remain."

McNUTT INDUCTED AS U. S. SECURITY ADMINISTRATOR

Indianan Joins New Deal's High Circle as Capital Buzzes With Talks of Nomination in 1940.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(P)—Paul V. McNutt moved into the Roosevelt administration's high circle today, taking office as the first federal security administrator.

He gave up an $18,000-a-year job as high commissioner to the Philippines to come to the Washington administrative—and political—scene for a $12,000 post created under the government reorganization plan.

The ceremony inducting McNutt into office was accompanied by more discussions of his possibilities as a 1940 Democratic presidential nominee. Senator Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, who wants law to ban political activity by government employees below the rank of policy-making officials, said McNutt should give up his new job if he proposes to campaign for the nomination.

McNutt supporters have considered the still unanswered question of a third term for President Roosevelt in their promotion of the former Indiana Governor. They offer McNutt only on condition that Mr. Roosevelt decides against running again.

A few hours after McNutt had formally accepted the post in a ceremony at the office of the surgeon general—one of the agencies under his administration—he visited Capitol Hill.

There he met another mentioned for the presidential nomination, Vice President Garner. The chat the two had, acquaintances said, "a friendly visit," without political significance. McNutt also greeted Senate Majority Leader Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky; Senator Minton, Democrat, Indiana, one of the leaders of the McNutt forces, and other senators.

The third-term question received attention during the day both at the capitol and in administration quarters.

G. S. C. W. IS PRAISED FOR YOUTH SERVICE

Alumnae Secretary Points to Accomplishments.

The Georgia State College for Women is an institution of service to the youth of Georgia and is not only a teacher-training institution, according to Miss Margaret Meaders, alumnae secretary. Graduates from the school have filled every conceivable professional capacity, Miss Meaders said.

The alumnae secretary pointed out the achievements of the college in the field of music, emphasizing in particular the accomplishments of the A. Capella choir which recently completed a tour of the Atlantic coast, which included a broadcast from Radio City.

DRAINAGE FUND ALLOTTED. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 13.—(P)—Colonel Lewis H. Watkins, district army engineer, said he had been notified of an additional $962,000 allotment for work on the Caloosahatchee river and Lake Okechobee drainage districts during the fiscal year.

Dramatic Presentations Are Offered Atlanta Moviegoers This Week

'Juarez' at Fox; Grand Offers 'On Borrowed Time'; Paramount, 'The Sun Never Sets'; Capitol, 'Secret Service of the Air'; Rialto Holds Comedy.

By LEE ROGERS, Motion Picture Editor.

A "heavy" motion picture week faces Atlantans for the coming seven days, except for the light and flippant comedy which has been held over at the Rialto for a third week, "Good Girls Go to Paris."

"Juarez," in which Academy Award Winner Paul Muni portrays the Mexican patriot, and Academy Award Winner Bette Davis gives an excellent contribution to motion picture art portraying the Empress Carlota going mad, is the dramatic feature at the Fox.

Another equally dramatic film is the picture version of "On Borrowed Time," in which Lionel Barrymore is the chief attraction at Loew's Grand. The Paramount is playing "The Sun Never Sets," a story of the British empire in which Basil Rathbone and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. have leads. The Capitol will open Sunday with a new vaudeville program and the picture, "Secret Service of the Air."

Grand

The Broadway stage success, "On Borrowed Time," comes to Loew's Grand today boasting a cast including Lionel Barrymore, who this year celebrates the thirtieth anniversary of his first screen role; Ebs Watson, Beulah Bondi, Una Merkel and Nat Pendleton.

To quote the producers: "On Borrowed Time" was produced to prove the contention that Hollywood has grown up. It is a definitely adult approach to screen entertainment completely off the beaten track. There is no love story. Marcia's romance being scarcely more than suggested. But there is the enduring affection of Gramp and Granny which continues even after death, and the deep and understanding fellowship between Gramp and Pud.

There is no chase, no spectacular climax, though the denouement is highly dramatic and suspenseful as Gramp becomes more and more desperate in his fight to circumvent death. But there is heartening laughter, rollicking joviality, the picturesque language of Gramp and Pud, and their fishing escapades in the old battle-ship of the Gramp.

There is the humor of their first appearance together at church, the grim feud they wage with Aunt Demetria, the thrill of trapping Mr. Brink in the apple tree, of outwitting doctor, lawyer and sheriff. And finally, there is the catch in the throat at tragedy, offset by shiny-eyed nature at the disclosure that death is not so fearsome a personality as he had first appeared.

Fox

Facts about "Juarez," now at the Fox:

First in the elaborate preparation made by Warner Brothers for the filming of "Juarez" was the six-week tour of Mexico made by Hal Wallis, executive in charge of production; Henry Blanke, producer; William Dieterle, director, and Paul Muni, star. The studio delegation visited every place where there was a chance of getting new data on the Mexican statesman, Juarez.

To the ladies: The complete jewelry ensembles which Bette Davis wears with each of her 18 magnificent costumes in "Juarez" are, in most cases, the actual pieces once owned by the Empress Carlota, and were rented from great jewel houses in Paris, New York and Mexico City.

Like the pianist who sounds his "A" note as the constant to which the rest of the orchestra tunes, Gilbert Roland's slight Spanish accent was the norm of speech to which all other actors in the cast of "Juarez" had to adjust during production. Before production began, some of Roland's speeches were recorded, and the discs were given to all members of the cast who played Mexican and Spanish roles.

Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences please note: The credits on "Juarez" list six winners of the much coveted "Oscars." They are, Bette Davis (two to her credit!), Paul Muni, Gale Sondergaard, Hal Wallis, "outstanding producer of the year," music by Fritz Wolfgang Korngold, and photography by Tony Gaudio.

Paramount

Douglas Fairbanks and Basil Rathbone virtually symbolize an empire in Universal's "The Sun Never Sets," which opens today at the Paramount theater.

Background of the story is the British diplomatic service, which actually started in the sixteenth century when Sir Walter Raleigh brought a handful of American tobacco to Queen Elizabeth. In "The Sun Never Sets," Rathbone and Fairbanks are seen as scions in a family traditionally dedicated to British colonial service. Rathbone, the elder, has followed family tradition and given his life in service. Fairbanks rebels at being so harnessed by tradition. But he finally goes into the service. He costs Rathbone his position because of a deliberate blunder, but straightens everything out in the end.

Virginia Field, Barbara O'Neil, Lionel Atwill, C. Aubrey Smith, Melville Cooper and Mary Forbes have other important roles.

Capitol

"Grand Jury Secrets," now showing at the Capitol theater, stars Gail Patrick and John Howard. It continues through tomorrow.

Starting Sunday the theater will bring to the screen the first of a series of pictures dealing with the men who make up Uncle Sam's secret service force. The title of this first one is "Secret Service of the Air," starring Ronald Reagan, recently seen with Bette Davis in "Dark Victory." John Littel, Ila Rhodes and others.

W. H. Moran, ex-chief of the United States secret service, wrote

INDICTMENTS READY FOR LOUISIANA JURY

12 Will Be Presented Today; Leche Curtly Rebuffed by Group.

BATON ROUGE, La., July 13.

(P)—District Attorney Dewey J. Sanchez announced in a press conference tonight that "at least 12 indictments will be presented tomorrow" to the East Baton Rouge parish grand jury investigating affairs of Louisiana State University and other matters.

He did not say whom the indictments would name.

"We spent all last night and today preparing indictments," he continued, "and will complete them in time for presentation to the grand jury at 10 a. m. tomorrow."

"The grand jury may act on them the first thing, or it may wait until just before adjourning for the week end."

Blow at Leche. The grand jury today listened to 11 witnesses following an unexpected refusal to hear testimony from former Governor Richard W. Leche.

Tonight Sanchez said that the grand jury's summons for General Louis F. Guerre, superintendent of state police, had not been served because he was out of the state, and it sought to have Guerre here when Leche testified. Guerre has sent word he will be here Monday.

The curt jury refusal to hear Leche came as a surprise even to the ex-Governor, who left disgruntled and hobbling in pain. The maneuver was immediately criticized by his successor, Governor Earl K. Long, who said it was discourteous.

"Below the Belt." "That's kind of hitting a man below the belt," Long said. "After all he's a sick man and besides he's a former Governor."

Leche, obviously, puzzled when the grand jury door was slammed in his face while a string of Louisiana State University workmen were taken instead, immediately protested the action to Attorney General Ellison and Sanchez, but without result.

"I don't know what happened," Leche said. "I was ready and the grand jury was not ready. I'll come back when I get another invitation." Previously he had objected to returning because he said the 100-mile motor trip, some of it over rough roads, aggravated his arthritis which he gave as reason for his resignation two and a half weeks ago.

Baptist Contest Winner

Miss Mary Whitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Whitt, of 532 Boulevard, S. E., a member of the Park Avenue Baptist church, won first place yesterday in the south-wide Bible word drill contest at the Baptist Training Union assembly at Ridgeport, N. C.

G. O. P. PREFERRED IN PENNSYLVANIA

54 Per Cent of State Which Was Democratic Now Favors Opposition.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
NEW YORK, July 13.—Pennsylvania, which went Democratic in 1936 but elected a Republican governor last autumn, continues to lean toward the Republican side, judging by surveys of political sentiment conducted throughout the state by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

Whereas President Roosevelt carried the state by 58 per cent in 1936, a majority of Pennsylvania voters now say they would like to see the Republican party, rather than the Democrats, win the presidential election of 1940.

GALLUP POLL

The division of strength between the Republicans and Democrats is sufficiently close at this time, however, to indicate that Pennsylvania, with its 36 electoral votes, is likely to be one of the chief battlegrounds in the campaign next year.

The trend toward Republicanism is indicated in the answers to the question: "Which party would you like to see win the presidential election in 1940?"

Would Like Democrats 46%
Would Like Republicans to Win 54%
Party defection is approximately five times as great among Democratic voters as among Republicans. Thus, while only one Republican voter in every 20 says he would like to see the Democrats win in 1940, one Democratic voter in every four at the present time says he would like to see the Republicans win.

A third term for President Roosevelt is not popular with a majority of Pennsylvania voters. In answer to the general question whether they would vote for Roosevelt for a third term if he ran, 46 per cent replied "yes," 54 per cent "no."

If Roosevelt did run, and the Republicans put up Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, to run against him, a majority of Pennsylvania voters say at the present time that they would vote for Dewey. The actual vote is:

Dewey 55%
Roosevelt 45%
In case Roosevelt decides not to run in 1940, Vice President Garner would be the leading choice of Pennsylvania Democrats, with James A. Farley second, and Cordell Hull third. However, more than half the Democratic voters in this state say they are undecided about their choice at the present time.

The leading choices of those with opinions are:

If F. D. R. Doesn't Run
Per Cent Favoring
Democrats 50%
Republicans 50%
James A. Farley 12%
Cordell Hull 9%
Frank Murphy 9%
Harry L. Hopkins 4%
Ex-Gov. George Earle 2%
Sen. Joseph Guffey 2%
Joseph P. Kennedy 1%
Herbert H. Lehman 1%
Others 4%

Among the others mentioned are Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson, Paul V. McNutt, Ambassador William Bullitt, a native of Philadelphia, and Harold L. Ickes.

Leading Republican choices in the Pennsylvania survey are:

Per Cent Favoring
Republicans 53%
Thomas E. Dewey 16%
Robert Taft 12%
Arthur H. Vandenberg 5%
Gov. Arthur James 4%
Herbert Hoover 4%
Alfred Landon 3%
William E. Borah 2%

Others mentioned included Bruce Barton, Henry Ford, Fiorello LaGuardia and Glenn Frank.

Keep Your Complexion Fresh and Lovely During Hot Summer Days

PowderBaseHoldsMakeUp Through Tennis, Swimming

By LILLIAN MAE.

I love sports, but I hate the way I look after a game of tennis or a cooling swim. My make-up either cakes or "comes off," and I look terrible.

But now I've found a remedy. I can now gallivant around in the sun and perspire all I please, then just wipe the moisture off my face and still have my make-up looking fresh. I can swim and then come out and dress, doing nothing to my complexion but pat the water off.

Yes, it does sound like a miracle. And it almost is, this new powder base! And at a dance it isn't necessary to keep powdering a perspiring nose, for the powder base is water-proof and moisture-resistant, so it holds make-up intact and fresh through all conditions.

In addition, it hides freckles, little lines and skin blemishes, and does wonders toward toning down the too-much-rosiness of a case of sunburn.

The manufacturer has made this foundation in convenient stick form so that it is necessary only to apply a bit here and there on forehead, cheeks and chin and spread evenly with the fingers. You'll be surprised at the easy manner in which your make-up goes on over it. The foundation comes in several skin tones.

Not satisfied with just the powder foundation, the manufacturer has made also a lovely rouge in the same convenient form. It is obtainable in several lovely shades which blend beautifully with the powder foundation.

Better phone me for the names of these indispensable items for these hot, moisture-laden summer days. Write me if you do not live in the city, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Make Your Talk Cordial, Vivid

An important date—but her two-cylinder vocabulary betrays her. His glance at his wrist watch says he's bored with her dull phrases—"Is that so," "You don't say."

Yet it's simple to spruce up your talk ahead of time, learn colorful expressions, gracious phrases ready for use. A smart girl—your, for instance—would do that!

How clever your repartee, how bright your descriptions then. "I've been busy as a ticking clock." "Me? I just gaped like an indolent lion." "He's so jaunty and cocky."

Know gracious phrases to start others talking, too. "Do tell me about it." "What do you think will happen?" "Is that your hobby?"

Or are you tongue-tied, ill at ease when praise is due? Say, "It was like you to do that." "How clever of you." "What a knack you have!" With these you create a warm, friendly feeling.

You win admiration, too, if you know how to end a disagreement, say, "Perhaps I don't understand."

This will be charming in printed batiste, dotted Swiss linen or ging-ham, with narrow leather belt.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1785-B is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16, 34 requires 3 3/4 yards of 35-inch fabric without nap. 1 2-3 yards trimming required for neck and sleeves.

Send for Barbara Bell's Spring and Summer Pattern Book! Make your own smart new frocks for street, daytime and afternoon, with these simple, carefully planned designs! It's chic, it's easy, it's economical, to sew your own. Each pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart to guide beginners.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

Give Up Friends Or Man I Love? Asks Girl

By Caroline Chatfield.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: I like this certain man much better than all the rest, but I am not sure that I love him enough to give up all my friends which he demands. He doesn't make any bones about it—just says "Take your choice of me or the others." He's several years older than I, ready to get married and although he didn't have more than sixth grade education he's serious, ambitious and going places. This is a hard decision for me to make and my future probably depends upon it. Please give me a lift. SOPHIA.

ANSWER: Don't let any man put you in the corner until you are sure that you love him, and don't let this particular man put you in the corner unless you are willing to take orders from him the rest of your life. He's a big boss and something of a bully too. Beware!

A courting beau who has so little confidence in himself that he's afraid of competition, a man who's willing to run a girl in before she's ready to be run in, is posting signs which she should read if she wants to know what sort of matrimonial partner he will be. The signs say he will be a whip popper, probably jealous and suspicious and certainly a sore trial to a spirited wife.

An old gal with her last call might skip the signs, marry the fellow and consider herself bowing to the will of Providence but a young gal who isn't in love with him should put him on the cooling board for a long period of probation. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: May a mother have some help in dissuading a fourteen-year-old school girl from using lipstick? I have forbidden my daughter to buy one so she borrows from her schoolmates. I have destroyed the borrowed one only to find them replaced with bigger, brighter ones. BAFFLED MOTHER.

ANSWER: My good woman, according to the moderns you are all wet in laying down laws to the young lady about so inconsequential matter as a lipstick. Even if you could keep the cosmetics out of her dressing table drawer—which you admit you cannot—you would have no earthly means of keeping her from using them when she was out of your sight. When persuasions fail so do prohibitions.

Mother can talk until she's black in the face about the attractiveness of beauty unadorned, about the folly of gilding the lily, but when Miss Fourteen sees the older girls colored up like sign boards there's not a chance that mother can convert daughter to her way of thinking. Rouge and lipstick are signals to the boys that she's aware of their presence, ready to be noticed and somewhat sophisticated.

Hence my advice to you, Baffled Mother, is to work for moderate use of lipstick and let the issue drop. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

MEANS TO END: Girl pays for cosmetics out of papa's pocket to get her hand in another pocket to pay for the cosmetics.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Letters unsuitable for publication will be answered personally provided they contain stamped, self-addressed envelopes. All names are held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

"I'm sorry I don't follow you."

And on everyday social and business occasions, what a help to know the cordial, poised thing to say. ## MY DAY Set Salary According To Living Conditions

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—Yesterday, with great interest, I read Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt's appeal to the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. It seems to me so obvious that married women should not be discriminated against, that I cannot imagine anyone who would really consider such a proposition.

As I look back, it seems to me, however, all this discussion was given impetus by the emergency measure which brought about a rule in the federal government during the depression, forbidding two married people to hold government positions; either the man or the woman had to give up a job. Now that the emergency is over, that rule has been rescinded, but there is, I think, one consideration in government employment that does not exist in private employment. The government wants to prevent the building up of a family bureaucracy.

However, salaries are low in government positions and there is very little outside employment to be obtained in the city of Washington. Therefore, even though you may not want to build up families who work for the government only, the question of the amount needed to live on decently must come into consideration. It seems to me that if a generous sum is set, on which an adequate standard of living may be preserved for the average family, that it might be well, if one member of the family earns that amount, to bar the employment of any other member of the family in government service. If a man and his wife together earn that amount, children who live in the same household should be barred from government employment.

Such a rule would not be directed at women particularly, married or single, but, if adopted by the federal government, it should be very carefully considered, for the same pattern might easily be followed by state and local governments. I see by the morning papers that the senate committee has voted for delay on neutrality. One vote makes this important decision. These gentlemen must go on the theory that if you delay making up your mind long enough, perhaps you may never have to, for somebody else may make it up for you. My own experience is that the things you refuse to meet today always come back at you later on, usually under circumstances which make the decision twice as difficult as it originally was. I would not weep over the difficulties of the gentlemen who made this decision, were it not for the fact that the results of their decision may not rest on their heads alone, but may affect innocent people in our country and other countries.

Neglect of Vitamins in Diet May Account for Bad Health

By Dr. William Brady.

Dieting to many connotes limiting the intake of nutrient for the purpose of reducing. But actually that is only one of many purposes of dieting.

Whatever the purpose of a prescribed, restricted or regulated diet may be, modern knowledge of nutrition warrants the practice now followed by all progressive physicians, of supplementing the diet with adequate amounts of vitamins, especially vitamin B-complex, vitamin C and vitamin D. This is important in cases of peptic ulcer and colitis. But neglect of accounts for much of the serious impairment of health of persons who restrict their diet for the purpose of reducing.

From inquiries received I infer that the belief is prevalent that certain foods if taken regularly reduce superfluous flesh, notably lemon juice. Lemon juice yields approximately 12 calories to the ounce, compared with orange juice which yields 16 calories to the ounce, prune juice 36 calories to the ounce and grape juice 18 calories to the ounce. Strawberry juice and lemon juice are nearly equal in caloric or nutritive value, strawberry juice if anything averages less than lemon juice. So it is absurd to imagine lemon juice reduces; it is merely less nourishing, less fattening if you please, than wine, beer and various sweetened fountain beverages.

Probably due to popular credulity in regard to Hollywood hunch many morons believe lamb chop and pineapple has some mysterious virtue as a reducing combination. In fact broiled lamb chop yields 105 calories to the ounce, compared with beefsteak which averages 75 calories to the ounce. Pineapple yields approximately 38 calories to the ounce, compared with peaches 12 calories, cantaloup 12 calories, apple 18 calories, banana 28 calories, grapes 27 calories and strawberries 11 calories to the ounce.

Probably evident to the adult mind that keeping slim or reducing is not a question of what you eat, but rather a question of the total caloric value of your day's intake against the calories used or burned to supply your muscular energy, heat and vital functions. The quaint practice of "dieting" by excluding items you imagine are "fattening" and taking only "light" foods, such as "fat-free" meats, is not only futile, but, if you follow such a plan for any length of time it is quite likely to wreck your health whether you reduce or not.

One of the strange popular fallacies regarding "fattening" foods is that potatoes must be excluded from the diet if you want to remain slender or reduce. Potato yields approximately 76 calories to the ounce, bread approximately 76 calories to the ounce.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Just another unhappy creature—fair, or at least fairish, fat and all of 40—worried, in the conventional way of the sex, about the critical time. (Miss S. A. H.)

ANSWER—No more reason than a man has to worry at middle age, that potatoes must be excluded from the diet if you want to remain slender or reduce. Potato yields approximately 76 calories to the ounce, bread approximately 76 calories to the ounce.

No Burn, More Tan. Perhaps this is not news to you, but it may be worth reporting that I have been able to enjoy my vacation at the beach with practically no burn and much better tan than ever before. I wonder if this is due to the fact I have been taking the vitamin D and B-complex for several months? (Miss W. F. C.)

ANSWER—Probably it is. A great many who have taken vitamin D (sunshine vitamin) for a considerable time, as a daily supplement to the diet, have noticed that they do not burn so easily and more readily acquire a coat of tan.

Ticket to Vite.

Returning Leads Problem To Average Bridge Player

By Harold Sharpsteen.

How to return partner's "top-of-nothing" lead apparently causes no end of trouble to bridge students of average playing experience, and justly so, due to the fact that very dummy hand presents its own peculiar problems.

When the opening lead is recognized as a top of a weak suit, third hand, as a rule, should not return the suit.

LEAD TO WEAKNESS. The simplest solution is to lead back to dummy's weakness.

If the contract is a suit bid and dummy's weakness is a void or singleton, third hand will usually be better off returning a trump.

SECOND WEAKNESS. When dummy contains a strong side suit, or if dummy is liberally supplied with trumps, third hand, as a rule, leads to the strongest suit or from his own strongest suit.

Leading up to dummy's strength instead of following the generally accepted rule of leading up to dummy's weakness, is sometimes justified holding a singleton or doubleton in dummy's strongest side suit, with the hope of winning a trick in the suit later by ruffing.

LEADS TO STRENGTH.

When dummy contains no real weakness and leader has opened the "top-of-nothing" third hand may lead up to an Ace in dummy, especially when dummy hand shows a scarcity of trump cards.

DO NOT RETURN. Against South's four heart contract, West opens the Club 9 which East easily recognizes as the top of a worthless suit because it can be easily beaten with a fourth best with three cards higher than the nine showing in dummy and his own hand. East wins with the Ace but does not return clubs as there is little possibility of establishing a trick for defense in that suit and the lead might set up dummy's Club Jack.

FORCES DUMMY ENTRY. A diamond lead would only aid declarer in setting up dummy's long suit and East does not want to lead trumps. East's best play is to try to force out dummy's Spade Ace, a precious entry card. East returns his Spade Jack to

Outdoor Sports Give Figure Symmetry

By Ida Jean Kain.

This is a request number... someone wants to know how Ethel Merman keeps her marvelous figure. So, armed with my trusty tape measure I went around and interviewed the original rhythm girl. Her figure is marvelous: Chest, 34 1/2 inches; bust, 37 inches; waist, 25 inches; hips, 37 inches.

That's what rhythm does for a girl—rhythm of work and play, perfectly balanced! There's the secret of the amazing vitality back of that vibrantly beautiful voice—call it umph, yumph, or oomph, she has it!

But let's start at the beginning of her career. Many girls on their way to success are willing to work hard and to give a career everything they have, often too much. They forget that health is a most important factor. But when Ethel Merman was doing stenographic work in the daytime and singing at night, she always managed to get 10 hours of sleep every night in spite of her two jobs.

Now that she is a well established star of the theatrical world, her program is still one that guards her vitality. Usually, one thinks of the theater personalities in connection with cafe society and glamorous settings. But Miss Merman's favorite recreation is relaxing in the sun, sailing a boat, swimming or playing tennis. She genuinely enjoys sports because, having started them in her teens, she can hold her own with the competition.

Her perfect figure is no accident. Outdoor sports are not only healthful but they make for ultra-streamlined. The "Guess You Weigh" man at the fair, who seldom misses, guessed Miss Merman to weigh 110 pounds. She weighs 121 pounds for a height of five feet and five inches.

She watches her weight, however, and has her own set of rules. Here are the things she never does: eats salt to food, takes any liquid with meals except one cup of tea, eats desserts, or eats too much at one time—believing that the more you eat, the more you will want to overeat. Anyone who follows that set of rules is unlikely to have to go on a diet.

Moreover, she likes the right foods—lean meat, vegetables, salads, fruit and milk. She has a unique scheme for drinking her milk—she takes it in the afternoon because she thinks it is less fattening! Well, milk contains just as many calories in the afternoon as it does at noon, but she has something there; too much liquid with the meals does increase the food capacity.

The more beauties I interview, the more I am convinced that to be beautiful you must adhere to the laws of health and have enough exercise, plenty of sleep, and the right kind of food. Miss Merman's program is a good example.

Making Reel Love to Garbo A Pleasure, Says Actor

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, July 13.—An inquisitive reporter asked Melvyn Douglas, "How do you enjoy making love to Garbo?" (For "Nitchka," of course). "Very much," replies Mr. Douglas, adding "You get an immediate response from her."

The actor worked with her eight years ago and finds her changed. "She has developed. She has great confidence now. She has many qualities similar to my wife. She is essentially feminine, very direct. She doesn't go in for trickeries like some other actresses I could mention, but won't."

"For instance," continues Melvyn, "we recently had a scene with Ina Claire in which there was a lot of feminine chicanery. After the take, Miss Garbo said, 'If only women would be direct.'"

He concludes, "She is very reserved—and that to me is an exciting quality."

By the way, Garbo still refers to her leading man as "Mr. Douglas"—no matter how great her response to his screen love-making.

Olivia De Havilland spent $500 in presents for the company at the conclusion of "Gone With the Wind." Olivia, incidentally, is not quite happy in her romance with Howard Hughes. The said gentleman committed the error of escorting another lady to a local preview. In retaliation, Olivia was teased by David Niven for the "They Shall Have Music" preview.

And now that Olivia and David Niven are set to co-star in "Raffles," this new romance is likely to continue.

To get back to the Heifetz picture, little Terry Kilburn absolutely refused to go to the first showing of "They Shall Have Music," because he thought his part too small. His part is bigger than Joel McCrea's—but that didn't stop McCrea and his wife from attending.

After seeing this picture, which is all Heifetz and Gene Reynolds (both excellent), I am not surprised Joel washed up his contract with Goldwyn. You need a microscope to find his role.

Robert Taylor finally gets a vacation in the picture, "The Sign of the Cross." He is under strict orders to remain in town while Metro decides whether to put him in "Florian" or "Guns and Fiddles." The latter again teams him with Hedy Lamarr. Which means that wife Barbara Stanwyck, now between pictures, is again thwarted of her honeymoon.

Joan Fontaine wanted to be nice to the crew and props on "The Women," so she gave an order for them to have coffee and doughnuts every morning for the run of the production. She has just received her bill—$160. Mabel Hutchinson who was brought out from New York to repeat her role of maid in this picture, tells me that her movie part is twice as long. "I have to say 'Yes, ma'am' twice," she giggles.

Nelson Eddy explains that the ridge around his waist is not fat but the result of a lot of singing. Iona Massey eats some shrimps that are not all they were cracked up to be—result—potomac poisoning. Mr. Eddy now refers to her as "Potomac Tilly." Charles Boyer says, "It is very essential for my self respect that I make pictures in France. The money is not important." And why? Because Charles receives such a lot of the latter from Hollywood. While I hold no brief for Hollywood, it is still the city that made Eddy famous—not France, where the actor's renown was comparatively limited.

Constance Bennett is hoping that when she sees her Marquis in Paris, he will accept a cut on that divorce settlement—rumored to be $100,000. She will be lucky to get off with an expected 50 per cent reduction. Ah, well, one husband giveth, the other taketh away.

Geraldine Fitzgerald tells an amusing story about the producer of one of her Hollywood pictures (he must remain nameless). "I don't think I'm suitable for the part," she told him after she had read the script of the planned production, "And I don't want to play it," she added.

Having been warned of the producer's inflammable temper, she waited apprehensively for his reply. She was astonished when he said softly, "That's reasonable." She smiled gratefully, gave him back the script, and started to leave the office. But before she reached the door, the producer halted her with, "But if you don't play it, you'll never again work in Hollywood."

Miss Fitzgerald played the part. And the joke was on her. She was a great success.

Change Atmosphere of Room With Curtains, Slip Covers

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

It would be pretty swell if we all could simply draw the curtain over our household scene, shift it around a bit and when the curtain goes up again, as it does in the theater, have an entirely new picture for the summer months. But alas and alack, such a drastic change takes more money than most of us feel we can devote to seasonal freshening up. So we are more interested in how to achieve the effect of a new picture without actually doing very much.

Honeyed Tones. We saw the idea worked out recently in an 18th century room which retained its original winter background and yet looked very cool and fresh for summer.

The walls were papered in a terra cotta striped design and the woodwork was natural pine and there was also a pine fireplace. The furniture consisted of a pine breakfast nook and odd tables, along with the usual array of upholstered furniture. The rug was a beige tone that was almost identical color of the honey-toned pine.

In winter the upholstery is predominantly in browns and terra cotta colors with lamps and accessories in green for accent. In summer curtains and slipcovers are mostly green which makes all the difference in the world in the coolness and tranquility of the room during the hot weather. The curtains are leafy green, as is the sofa, and a pair of easy chairs in white chintz with green leaves in the pattern are placed side by side with their backs to the fireplace. The pine mantel makes quite a decorative frame for this pair of chairs, while they in turn keep it from looking so solemn in its off-season. Another chair is upholstered in this same crisp white and green chintz, and so without any basic background change the room becomes cool and leafy.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Boykin, in care of The Atlanta Constitution, for her bulletin, "Directions for Making Curtains and Draperies."

Atlanta Belle Embarks Today For South American Cruise

By Sally Forth.

IDA AKERS is the most recent Atlanta belle to harken to the magic call of the sea. Ida left Tuesday for New York, from whence she sails today aboard the steamship Uruguay for South America. Chaparrone by Bobo Murray, of Macon, the attractive Atlanta and nine boys and girls from over the state will spend two months inspecting the fascinating extravaganzas of the tropics.

Ida will have as her roommate aboard ship Florence Domingos, of Macon, who "roomed" with Atlanta's Betty Taylor at Fairmont School in Washington last year. Sally has heard numerous compliments about Florence via the grapevine route, and predicts that the Macon belle and Ida will be most congenial.

The travelers' first port of call is Rio de Janeiro, the capital of Brazil, where they will spend two days. Two weeks will be spent in Rio de Janeiro, the capital of Brazil, and a number of scenic drives to near-by cities will delight beauty-lovers in the group.

Embarking on an Argentine host, Ida and her companions will sail to Santos and Sao Paulo in Brazil, where they will visit the orchid gardens and the famous snake farm there. After a day at Montevideo, capital of Uruguay, they will visit Buenos Aires, capital of the Argentine and largest city in South America. Among high lights of the tour will be a sojourn at the Chilean lake district, an airplane flight over the hazardous Andes mountains, and visits to Santiago, capital of Chile, and to Mollendo and Lima, Peru. The latter, the capital of Peru, is often referred to as the City of Kings.

The first month of autumn will find the Atlanta belle in Talaría, Peru, from whence she will set out to visit Manta Bahia in Ecuador, Monte Christie and Colombia, after which she will proceed to Havana through the Panama canal.

The youthful tourists will dock in New York on September 12, where Ida will doubtless spend several days assembling her fall wardrobe before returning to Atlanta.

Atlanta Pilot Club Outlines Education Program for Year

An interesting feature of the recent meeting of the Atlanta Pilot Club at which Miss Julia Mashburn presided, was the acceptance of the Education Committee program for the year. Miss Martha Randall heads this committee, assisted by Mrs. Polly Bryan, Carolyn Murphy and Anne Sherer. Eight objectives, representing the eight spokes in the Pilot Wheel, have been selected, namely: 1. Revolving educational funds, out of which they will sponsor a girl through a business college. 2. Pilot Night, an educational project directed to the Churches Home for Girls, and through which these girls will have opportunity to hear outstanding speakers on a personality program. These will be held each month and invitation extended to each home and other civic organizations. 3. Pilot hour, a one hour visit each month to some institution whose members might be benefited by the outside contact and the entertainment offered. 4. Co-Sponsoring W. P. A. House-

Cassidy, the newly re-elected national director and state manager of Georgia, was guest of honor. Mrs. Myrtle McIntosh graciously served as assistant attendant.

The Do-Al-Ta-Team Girls were present and assisted in all the ritualistic work. Five new members were accepted.

The regional meeting will be held next year, including the seven states of Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee and Georgia. The national institute will be held in Omaha in 1941 and the next state convention will be held in 1942, instead of 1943.

A day was set aside at the World's Fair for W. O. W., and Woodmen Circle Day, and exhibition drills for the teams were held at the fair grounds.

The campaign in honor of Mrs. Talley's birthday will begin on July 15 and extend through November 15.

Over $700 was pledged at the convention for the Home for Aged Members and Orphan Children in Sherman, Texas. Georgia is third in net gain for the past four years.

Crackers Tally 3 in 9th To Tie Score; Vols Rally To Win, 7-6

All in the GAME

by Jack Troy

Looks like the Crackers came up with something in Wee Willie Duke, doesn't it?

Not counting last night's game, Willie had been in seven Cracker contests and had distinguished himself no little.

Harold Foreman, Howe News Bureau representative, provided the information that, in the seven games, Duke has secured at least one hit in every game and has batted in at least one run in every game. He has been at bat 25 times and collected 11 hits for a percentage of .440 and has driven in eight runs.

Sort of looks like a case of history repeating as far as Atlanta-New Orleans deals are concerned.

That time the Crackers traded Joe Hutchison for Eddie Rose, Eddie helped bat the Atlanta club to a pennant, while Hutchison appeared only a few times in the Pelican lineup and then was shipped away.

Well, Fritz Oetting appeared a few times in the Pelican lineup and now is riding the bench.

Duke didn't do it to the point of jeopardizing his standing in baseball, but he has let it be known for a year or two that he would like to play with the Crackers.

And now it would seem that he is making the most of his opportunity, for he's fielding sensationally, too.

Another very encouraging thing about the Crackers right at this time is the improvement in Lester Burge's hitting. All season the Crackers have needed someone who could pole the ball for distance, and both Duke and Burge are capable of doing it now.

A third batsman who is coming up with more power is Al Rubeling. All in all, the Crackers are in good shape for a pennant fight, with one exception. They could stand to have another good pitcher. And, as said many times before, Larry Miller may return with the solution to that problem.

AH, A CHAMPION AT LAST!

The Constitution had almost given up hopes of ever having an international champion in sports, but faith and patience finally have been rewarded.

And it's small wonder Mr. Henry Grady is walking about with his chest swelled to watermelon proportions.

Charlie Hamby is coming home from London as an important member of the United States rifle team which recently won the Pershing trophy, emblematic of world supremacy with the small-bore rifle.

Hamby, using a strange rifle, turned in an individual score of 394 points out of a possible 400 on the blustery, wind-swept Ham and Petersham range near London.

Charlie long has been one of the nation's better shots and the help he gave the United States team in winning the Pershing trophy is a laudable thing. For nine years United States rifle teams were turned back in their quest of the trophy.

He is one of the boys here at The Constitution. He works for the Southern Engraving Company, which is why Mr. Henry Grady is so proud. Mr. Grady has been one of Charlie's most ardent boosters for many years.

In fact, we're all proud of Charlie. We thought for a while Roby Robinson would win us a golf title, but he finally fired and fell back. Roy White couldn't even win a ninth flight for us.

Now, at last, we have an international champion. Or at

PETERS SLAMS HOMER IN 7TH; HARRIS ROUTED

Dugas Homers for Vols; Crackers Play Here Tonight.

By FREDDIE RUSSELL.
NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 13.—Wally Rospond's long single to the left field wall scoring Bert Haas from second base in the last of the ninth inning gave Nashville a 7-6 victory over Atlanta in the rubber game of the series here tonight. Frank Gabler was the losing pitcher.

The Crackers rallied to score three runs and tie the game in the first of the ninth when Mauldin and Peters doubled, Sperry walked, Malho singled, Rubeling walked and Duke singled. Woody Johnson finally fanned Burge to end the rally.

EARLY LEAD.
Nashville shoved off to a 1-run lead in the first inning, scoring on Gilbert's double over Rucker's Atlanta's Crackers return from Nashville for a four-game series with Knoxville beginning tonight at 8:30 o'clock. A single game will be played Saturday afternoon, and a doubleheader is slated Sunday. Tonight's game will be a ladies' night as usual. This series was scheduled in Knoxville, but was switched because of the World Baptist Alliance meeting scheduled at Ponce de Leon at the time the Smokies were originally due here.

head in center and singles by Williams and Chapman. Another run was added by the homelings in the second on singles by Malho and Rospond, Peters' error and Adams' force-out.

Peters and Richards doubled in order to give Atlanta a run in the third.

The first two Vols at bat in the fourth got aboard but Harris pitched out of the hole neatly. The locals counted their third run in the fifth when Dugas, Haas and Rospond singled.

RUCKER SINGLES.
After striking out the first two times at bat, Rucker singled to center to open the sixth. Took third on Rubeling's single and Gilbert's error and scored on Duke's sacrifice fly for Atlanta's second run.

Calvin Chapman's 17th home run with Rucker's homer by another round-tripper by Dugas, increased Nashville's lead to 6-2 in the sixth.

Peters homered over the right field screen for the Crax in the seventh.

Metz, Picard, Harrison and Nelson Gain P. G. A. Semi-Finals

OPEN CHAMPION PLAYS HARRISON THIS AFTERNOON

Munday Gives Picard a Tough Battle Before Losing; Runyan Bows.

By BILL BONI.
NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—By playing 27 holes in 19 pars and eight birdies, Byron Nelson, the reigning United States Open champion from Reading, Pa., today came a big step closer to becoming the first golfer since Gene Sarazen to win the open and the P. G. A. championships in the same year.

Nelson, one of the best iron players in the business, blasted blond Emerick Kocsis, of Orion, Mich., out of the 22d P. G. A. tournament at the Pomonok Country Club by the lop-sided score of 10 and 9.

BYRON NELSON

All in the same afternoon Defending Champion Paul Runyan came to the end of a nine-match winning streak, Henry Picard had to haul himself up by his boot straps to avoid losing to a little-known assistant pro and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison reached the semi-final round in his first P. G. A. tourney. But it was Nelson who put on the demonstration of how this sub-normally short golf course should be played.

SEVEN UNDER PAR.
The slim ex-Texan, who holds the 36-hole tournament record of 130 strokes, did half that well for the morning half of his quarter-final "match" with Kocsis. Lord Byron, with seven 3's on his card, shot a seven-under-par 65 into Kocsis' ruddy face and, since that left him 7 up, had to go only nine more holes to close out the match.

In tomorrow's 36-hole semi-final, which he must win for a shot at the feat Sarazen performed in 1922, Nelson will go up against Harrison, the lean, lanky ex-Arkansan from Oak Park, Ill., who hasn't been very bashful either, in his man-handling of Pomonok's par.

HORTON SMITH BOWS.
Dutch, one of the country's most promising younger pros, won his semi-final spurs by turning back Horton Smith, his original sponsor, 4 and 3. In the upper half of the draw Dick Metz, no worse than even after the seventh hole in the morning, whipped Runyan, 2 and 1, and Picard had to win the last two holes to top California-born Rod Munday, Runyan's assistant, by the same score.

SEEDED NETMEN TAKE MATCHES

All eight seeded players entered the quarter-finals and one went into the semi-finals in the East Point tennis tournament yesterday.

Cortez Suttles led the players into the round of four with a convincing 6-2, 6-3 win over Charles Mount. Pugh Smith was a bit extended but turned back Frank Hunt, 6-3, 6-3, and Millard Posey lost only one game as he demolished Bill Ellison.

In doubles, Ziegler-Daniel beat Paula-Colley, 6-2, 6-0, and Abbott-McElhannon split two sets with Posey-Kendrick. Quarter-finals in singles and doubles will be played today.

The pairings:
8:00 O'Clock—Vason vs. Pitts.
8:30 O'Clock—Smith vs. Thompson; Posey vs. Stillwell.
9:00 O'Clock—Brown vs. winner of Vason-Pitts.
9:30 O'Clock—Suttles-Stillwell vs. Ziegler-Daniel; completion of Abbott-McElhannon vs. Posey-Kendrick; Brown-Smith vs. Tumlin-Hughes.

Tourney Darkhorse Reaches Quarter-Finals;
Seeded Stars Advance in City Meet.

By EARNST HARWELL.
Lanky Jack Teagle smashed his way into the quarter-finals of the city tennis tourney last night with a brilliant comeback victory over Red Hill, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Erring many times in the first set Teagle seemed an easy prey for Hill, the Tech star. Then he regained the accuracy with which he would shoot an invincible backhand across court at Hill and then from the net blasted the Jacket netman into oblivion.

Tonight at 7 o'clock Teagle battles Don Floyd, who advanced into the quarter-final round with a 6-4, 8-6 win over Harold Duncan. Floyd is the Endurance Kid who runs his opponents to death and then tirelessly puts away the match.

Campbell Gillespie, gunning for his second straight title, found trouble in getting by Eddie Selfe, but finally managed to vanquish the young upstart, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4. Selfe's soft game puzzled Gillespie, but he outlasted the youthful star and grabbed the final set.

Along with Gillespie into the quarter-finals went the other seeded stars. Cortez Suttles, sixth seeded, disposed of J. T. Chambers, 6-1, 5-7, 6-2. He battles Gillespie tonight in what promises plenty of fireworks.

KELLS BOLAND WINS.

Dr. Kells Boland, steady third-ranked veteran, again displayed his customary solidity in eliminating Glenn McConnell, 6-1, 6-0, in a match that failed to produce the predicted excitement. Boland tonight plays Charles Rice, handsome young Tech High star who outtoughed Malcolm Manley, 5-7, 6-4, 6-1.

Smooth-stroking Manley grabbed the first set as Rice found trouble with his overhands and forehand smashes. But then Rice steadied and his game strengthened as the match went on. He took the second set, 6-4, and then annexed the final one with ease. As his accuracy returned he made some brilliant gets in the final two sets.

Another match tonight will bring together two of city tennis' top players. Malon Courts, second seeded, who continued his breezy way into the quarter-finals with a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Treville Lawrence, will match strokes with Dr. Glenn Dudley, fifth ranked. Dudley disposed of Charles Lindsay with ease, 6-0, 6-1.

LADIES' RESULTS.

Mrs. Dave Jones, top-seeded in the women's singles, entered round three with a 6-1, 6-3 win over Julia Fitzsimmons. Gladys Vallebuena, next ranked, won from Mrs. Gilbert Stacy, 6-0, 6-1.

Feature of the men's doubles was the battle between Molly Williamson and Britt Knox and Bilsy Grant and Pete Eney. They kept the crowd in stitches as Grant & Co. won, 6-3, 8-6.

SAVAGE SOUGHT FOR BOUT HERE

Daniel Boone Savage, if he can be located by promoters, will be the next opponent of Babe Zaharias at Warren Field.

Zaharias' victory over Dorv Roche here Tuesday night, accomplished with almost unprecedented roughness, has convinced promoters that Daniel Boone is the one man to curb the villainous Greek.

Savage all but cleaned up the ring with Zaharias and Dorv Roche in a recent bout here and before leaving Atlanta, expressed a desire to meet Babe in a finish match. If promoters locate Savage, who is reported to be somewhere in Texas, it will then be their task to lure Zaharias into accepting the bewhiskered giant as an opponent.

Daniel Boone is one of the game's greatest gate attractions. He and his coon and his hound dog never fail to give the customers a thrill.

Mount Clemens, Mich., 15 miles from Detroit, wants Bob Pastor to train there for the Louis bout.

BOBBITT BEATS JACK BUSHMAN

Gillespie Trims Adelsberg, Meets McGhee in Last Quarter-Final.

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—Frank Bowden, heavy-hitting New York player, performed the first major upset of the New York state clay court tennis championships today when he overpowered second-seeded Morey Lewis, of Texas, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

The victory sent Bowden, seeded No. 7, into the semi-finals with Frank Guernsey, of Orlando, Fla., the defending champion, and Russell Bobbitt, of Atlanta, seeded third. The fourth semi-final bracket will be filled tomorrow when Billy McGhee, of New Orleans, meets Bill Gillespie, of Atlanta, in their quarter-final match. Gillespie reached the round of eight today by beating Morris Adelsberg, of New York, 8-6, 6-4.

Guernsey and Bobbitt, who as partners have demons on the national doubles title advanced to the semifinals at the expense of a pair of Louisiana State University players. Guernsey turned back Bernard Jacoby, a New York boy, who went south to play, 6-3, 8-6, after beating off a second-set challenge that gave Jacoby a 5-3 lead. Bobbitt, overpowered by sheer speed in the first set, out-steadied Jack Bushman to win, 3-6, 6-4, 6-0. The pace Bushman set wore him down in the end.

Bartlett Wins Singles, Shares Doubles Title

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—(AP) Earl "Tony" Bartlett Jr., of New Orleans, won the Pennsylvania state junior tennis championship today by beating Vic Seixas, of Philadelphia, 5-7, 6-3, 7-5, 6-2.

Bartlett and Gardner also won in the doubles. Paired with Bud Hart, of Miami, Bartlett beat Seixas and Bill Vogt, Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2, in the junior doubles. In the boys' doubles Gardner and Morton Stern, Philadelphia, won over Leo Jordan and Ray Cordier, of Lansdowne, Pa., 6-3, 7-5.

Parker, Mako, Mulloy, Doeg in Semi-Finals

SPRING LAKE, N. J., July 13. (AP)—Playing before the critical eye of Walter L. Pate, captain of the United States Davis cup team, the first four seeded players captured semifinals singles berths today in the annual Spring Lake tennis tournament.

Top-seeded Frank A. Parker, of Pasadena, Cal., the defending champion and a heavy favorite to win the trophy for the sixth time, led the field into the round of four by crushing Francis X. Shields, former Davis cup player from Hollywood, Cal., 6-0, 6-4. It was Parker's most impressive exhibition of the tournament.

With him went C. Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, Cal., seeded second; Gardner Mulloy, of Coral Gables, Fla., third-ranked player, and John Hope Doeg, of Rumson, who is seeded fourth.

RAY AND HAYNES WELL MATCHED

From all indications, Elmer Ray and Leroy Haynes, powerful heavyweights who headline an all-colored boxing card at the ball park Monday night, are as evenly matched as any two gladiators ever to appear in a local ring and chances are fans will be treated to a sensational fight.

Ray has beaten and been beaten by Bearcat Obie. Haynes held Obie to a 15-round draw at Miami and lost a close decision to him in a return bout here. Both men are eager for a return shot at Bearcat and Matchmaker Cleve Roby has promised the winner a bout with Obie in the near future.

Ray is a long range fighter, possessing one of the deadliest left hooks in boxing. Haynes is a superb in-fighter. Therefore, this contrast in styles should make for a first-rate scrap.

In all, there will be 36 rounds of boxing. Roby is busy lining up four other attractive bouts featuring boys of proven ability. A crowd of 3,750 saw the last colored show. And called it one of the best on record here.

Purging of Fulton Relief Rolls Stymied

Absence From City of Welfare Board Members Prevents Hailey From Calling Parley.

Absence from the city of several members of the Fulton County Board of Public Welfare yesterday prevented Commissioner Gloor Hailey, chairman of the alms and juveniles committee of the county commission, from seeking a joint conference between various agencies to purge the Fulton county unemployable relief rolls.

Hailey said he will seek the meeting as soon as possible and that the entire relief problem will be canvassed with a view of shifting 42.3 per cent of the relief clients from the county unemployable relief rolls to other agencies.

Of the 2,074 persons examined by county physicians, 42.3 per cent were found to be able to perform some kind of work and more than 19 per cent were said to be able to do full labor.

Latest figures released by county physicians showed 18 persons are dead but still on relief rolls; 10 are in jail; one received a check for her sister; 13 live in DeKalb county; 12 are reported working at present but still get relief checks; two addresses given the relief rolls were vacant lots; addresses of 60 on the rolls were unknown; 75 others had moved and could not be located; there were no such house numbers in 33 other instances; addresses were vacant houses in eight cases; four husbands were working but their wives were on relief; four still on the rolls have moved to other cities.

One white client was drunk and could not appear for examination; one minor white child was receiving relief, two were still on the relief rolls but were not receiving relief checks, and one person was married and does not

AVERAGE PRICE. NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—(P)—The average price of middling cotton at 10 southern spot markets today was 9.45 cents a pound. The average price for the past 30 market days was 9.47 cents.

NEW YORK, July 13.—(P)—A nervous trade in cotton futures today resulted from absence during trading hours of news from Washington regarding the meeting between Secretary Wallace and leading cotton men on export subsidy plans.

Closing losses of 4 to 6 points followed active liquidation in July, which goes off the board tomorrow, and hedging sales and professional selling in new crop deliveries.

Heavy buying developed in May in late trading when foreign brokers bid for contracts at slightly below market levels. The demand was finally satisfied by sale of large blocks by New Orleans accounts and ring professionals.

A short rally that came on the heels of Secretary Wallace's opening remarks to the conference calling for a flat subsidy rate soon petered out.

Exports today 12,734 bales; season so far 3,491,617, port receipts 6,830; port stocks 1,921,306.

COTTON FUTURES. DIPP IN NEW ORLEANS. NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—(P) Cotton futures declined here today on selling based on more favorable weather in the growing region. The close was steady at net losses of 3 to 4 points.

AVERAGE PRICE. NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—(P)—The average price of middling cotton at 10 southern spot markets today was 9.45 cents a pound. The average price for the past 30 market days was 9.47 cents.

NEW YORK, July 13.—(P)—A nervous trade in cotton futures today resulted from absence during trading hours of news from Washington regarding the meeting between Secretary Wallace and leading cotton men on export subsidy plans.

Closing losses of 4 to 6 points followed active liquidation in July, which goes off the board tomorrow, and hedging sales and professional selling in new crop deliveries.

Heavy buying developed in May in late trading when foreign brokers bid for contracts at slightly below market levels. The demand was finally satisfied by sale of large blocks by New Orleans accounts and ring professionals.

A short rally that came on the heels of Secretary Wallace's opening remarks to the conference calling for a flat subsidy rate soon petered out.

Exports today 12,734 bales; season so far 3,491,617, port receipts 6,830; port stocks 1,921,306.

COTTON FUTURES. DIPP IN NEW ORLEANS. NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—(P) Cotton futures declined here today on selling based on more favorable weather in the growing region. The close was steady at net losses of 3 to 4 points.

Sharp Losses on Chicago Market Are Canceled in Final Hour.

CHICAGO GRAINS AND PROVISIONS. WHEAT—Open High Low Close. Prev. Sept. 45.45 45.45 45.45 45.45 45.45. Oct. 45.45 45.45 45.45 45.45 45.45.

CHICAGO, July 13.—(P)—Although the grain pits absorbed another wave of selling today, wheat, corn, soybean futures to new season low prices, the market righted itself before the close.

Losses of about 3 cents yesterday's closing figures were wiped out in the final hour. Trade rally and prices finished near the higher compared with yesterday. July and September contracts were quoted at 65 1/2-66 1/2 and 66 1/2-67 1/2, respectively, compared with low 64 7/8 and 65 1/8.

corn tumbled about 1 1/2-2 cents from early highs, but closed 1-1 1/2 to 3-1/2 lower than yesterday's closing figures. July and September contracts were quoted at 65 1/2-66 1/2 and 66 1/2-67 1/2, respectively, compared with low 64 7/8 and 65 1/8.

Some of the buying which helped to rally wheat came from dealers and millers, apparently associated with good flour business recently.

FACE BLOWN AWAY IN BLAST, MAN DIES

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., July 13. (AP)—Blake Lowe, of Richlands, Va., 37-year-old highway worker whose face literally was blown away by an explosion, died today. He was conscious almost to the end, physicians said.

A dynamite charge in a section of rock exploded prematurely near Tazewell, Va., yesterday.

while Lowe was drilling. Despite his condition, he was able to talk. "Please don't tell my wife what sort of shape I'm in," he murmured after reaching a Bluefield hospital.

FREED IN SLAYING.
DOVER, Del., July 13.—(UP)—Isabelle Donovan, 18, was acquitted of manslaughter charges today in the "lover's lane" slaying of her Civilian Conservation Corps sweetheart, Vaughn G. Webb, 20.

MRS. PANTAGES DROPS ALIENATION SUIT

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Rodney A. Pantages today dropped her $600,000 alienation of affections suit against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Lois Pantages, widow of Alexander Pantages, theater magnate.

The dismissal was filed without prejudice, thus permitting institution of a later suit on the same grounds.

The younger Mrs. Pantages charged her mother-in-law had caused her to lose the love of her husband. Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Pantages are suing each other for divorce and custody of their two young children.

TROOPER IS FREED, FACES NEW CHARGE

Jones Cleared in Death of Bogart Youth; Indicted in Baldwin.

ATHENS, Ga., July 13.—(AP)—After deliberating approximately six hours, a Clarke county superior court jury today acquitted State Trooper W. H. Jones Jr., of involuntary manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Herbert Daniel, Bogart youth, July 2.

Daniel was killed by a pistol bullet fired, highway patrolmen asserted, at the climax of a nine-mile chase in which they sought to halt an automobile in which the youth was a passenger.

Jones declared the fatal bullet ricocheted from a rock and struck Daniel when he fired at the times to halt the automobile after the driver had tried four times to run the troopers from the road.

Girl in Car Also.
Raymond Morgan, also of Bogart, and driver of the automobile, testified Jones fired after he halted on a side road. A girl was also riding in the car.

Jones is under indictment in Baldwin county on charges of assault with intent to murder. Sheriff W. L. Harrison, at Milledgeville, said the indictment, returned Tuesday, charged Jones with assaulting Luther Herrin, a farmer.

Basis of Indictment.
Harrison said Herrin was arrested by Jones April 6 on a charge of violating the state motor vehicle act and resisting arrest. The Jones indictment, he said, grew from an argument between the trooper and Herrin preceding the latter's arrest.

The sheriff quoted Jones as saying Herrin struck at him and he struck back. The trooper had stopped to caution Herrin about parking on the pavement.

Jones probably will be tried next week, Harrison said. Herrin also is scheduled for trial at this time of court.

BOARD TO ACT AGAIN ON TROOPER'S CASE

The State Board of Public Safety will meet again soon to pass on the job of Highway Patrolman W. H. Jones Jr., acquitted in Athens of a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Governor Rivers disclosed this when informed of Jones' acquittal. He explained the policy of suspending persons connected with state government when charges are filed against them.

"The fact that we suspend anyone connected with the state when a charge is placed against him does not and should not mean that we are attempting in any way to pass upon his guilt or innocence," the Governor said.

He mentioned the case of Andrew A. Smith, his naval aide, who will be tried at Hamilton next Tuesday on an indictment charging sale and possession of liquor.

"Now the fact that we suspended Andy's contracts for concessions in state parks did not mean at all that we were attempting to pass on his case," the chief executive continued.

"It simply is our policy to make suspensions pending the outcome of the cases in court. I have every confidence in Andy Smith."

WALLACE, CARMODY
PRAISE LEND PLAN

Claim $3,460,000,000 Would Aid Purchasing, Not Hurt Business.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(UP)—Two top-flight New Deal officials—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and Federal Works Administrator John M. Carmody—today congressional committee today that President Roosevelt's new $3,460,000,000 lending program would increase purchasing power without tampering with private business.

Carmody, new generalissimo of the administration's public works and relief agencies, said that the program, which contemplates expenditure of $350,000,000 in self-liquidating public works, proposes no federal loans to municipalities for the acquisition of private utilities. He testified before the senate banking and currency committee.

Wallace, who appeared before the house banking and currency committee in support of the $2,660,000,000 Barkley-Segall bill, which embodies the main provisions of the presidential program, said that its provision for $600,000,000 in loans to aid tenant and share-cropper farmers would help to alleviate a situation where 4,000,000 rural residents are trying to live on incomes of $1 per week per person.
